STATE BUDGET REQUEST IS LABELED 'FANTASTIC'

Dulles Pleads: 'Trust Ike' On Spending in Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary Dulles pleaded today that Congress trust President Eisenhower to make good use of the $200 million the administration asks for military and economic aid to Middle East nations.

Pressed by Sen. Russell (D-Ga) for more information on how the money would be spent, Dulles told a Senate hearing:

"If we have to pinpoint everything we propose to do, this program will not serve its purpose.

"If Congress is not willing to trust the President to the extent he asks, we can't win this battle."

Dulles said too that the Middle East situation could end in "a great disaster to the United States" if Eisenhower was not given the military and economic powers he asks.

However, Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) demanded that Dulles submit an official "white paper" justifying his conduct of American foreign policy in the Middle East.

Sen. Morse (D-Ore) backed Fulbright's move as a means of forcing Dulles to explain more clearly to Congress why special military-economic authority is needed to deal with Communist threats in the Middle East.

Eisenhower asked authority to send in U.S. troops against any overt Communist aggression in the Middle East, and approval for spending up to $200 million out of available funds this year on economic aid

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) said that support for the administration's resolution "has been building up steadily ever since the Russians and Red Chinese got out their joint communique threatening to defend the Middle East against aggression from us."

Meantime, the House Foreign Affairs Committee drove toward completion of its work on the Middle East resolution. There were indications the finished product would follow administration proposals rather closely.

Chairman Gordon (D-Ill) said prospects looked "good" for completing action by nightfall.

The House group Wednesday wrote in tentatively a stipulation that the proposed economic aid should go to any nation or group of nations in the area "desiring such assistance." The original version included no such specific provision.

The group also discussed some 15 amendments but took no action on any.

The administration was described as agreeing to two proposed amendments. These would: (1) make clear that the $200 would be available for commitment only during the fiscal year, ending June 30, and (2) limit spending for any one country to $30 million.

Eisenhower said Wednesday that separation of the economic and military phases of his proposal "would destroy what we are really trying to do."

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) said that "while many senators have serious doubts, the feeling is growing it might have a bad impact around the world if we vote for the use of force and left out economic support. It might do more harm than good."

School Suit Trial Gets Under Way

A taxpayers' suit seeking formation of a Citizens Committee to study county - city school problems in Fayette County came to trial in the Common Pleas Courtroom Thursday morning, with Common Pleas Judge John H. Houston of Brown County sitting by assignment.

The suit for declaratory judgment, brought by Sam Marting and 11 others against the Fayette County, Miami Trace, Washington C. H. district boards, and others is a Probate Court case, but the trial was moved to the larger courtroom because of public interest in the proceedings.

In addition to plaintiffs, defendants and their counsel, there were approximately 35 spectators in the courtroom at the beginning of the trial which is expected to last two days — and perhaps longer.

AFTER AN opening statement by John MacMahon, representing the firm of George, Greek, King and MacMahon, attorneys for the plaintiffs, a motion was made by Grace Fern Heck, Miami Trace counsel, that Miami Trace and the former Jefferson, Paint and Bloomingburg boards be dismissed as defendants on grounds that they had no jurisdiction if the Fayette County Board of Education failed to start proceedings for formation of a Citizens Committee.

Richard Addison, of the firm of Butler, Addison and Werum, attorneys for the county board, asked dismissal of the county board and County Superintendent W. J. Hilty, clerk of the county board, as defendants on the basis that the defendant city board did not appoint a delegate to a Citizens Committee convention.

Judge Houston reserved action on both motions.

The city board in a previous pleading, admitted allegations in the taxpayer petition, theoretically placing itself on the side of the plaintiffs. William Junk represents the city board.

ADMITTED to the record were a group of stipulations, agreed to by attorneys for all parties at a pre - trial conference Jan. 11. These cover matters of admitted fact, including composition of the defendant boards and resolutions of record in reference to consolidations and mergers already effected.

THE COUNTY superintendent was the first witness called by the plaintiffs, and Hilty's testimony regarded receipt of a purported petition for a Citizens Committee occupied much of the morning session which was recessed at noon for an hour.

Validity or invalidity of the 31-page petition has not yet been determined by the court.

Cross-examined by MacMahon, Hilty said that he was not in his courthouse office at the time the document was received by mail on Nov. 4, 1955, but he said that he filed it after looking it over when he returned to his office.

He said that the petition had been

$50,000 Damage Action is Filed

Suit Follows Alleged Personal Injuries

Alleging that the defendant violently assaulted her by striking her in the face and fracturing her nose, Nov. 26, 1956, Virginia Thompson, 522 Columbus Ave., has filed suit against Morton Titus, 512 Columbus Ave., for $50,000 damages.

The alleged offense occurred at 11:30 p. m. on the above date, according to the petition, at plaintiff's home.

The petition states that plaintiff was "unlawfully, maliciously and without just provocation, assaulted and violently and with great force struck about the face and across the nose by the defendant, as result of which plaintiff suffered a depressed fracture of the left side of her nose, which required plastic surgery to repair."

Due to the injuries sustained, the plaintiff states that she suffered great pain and nervous shock, and mental anguish, and is continuing to suffer. Also that she was hospitalized and expended a considerable amount for medical attention.

Plaintiff states that she has suffered compensatory damages in the amount of $25,000 and punitive damages in a like amount, or $50,000 in all, for which she asks judgment.

Nasser Sees 'New Trouble' In Mid-East

Egyptian Chief Warns Against Protectorate For Gaza Strip, Aqaba

By The Associated Press

Egypt's President Nasser has told Chinese newsmen any attempt by Western powers to "internationalize" the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba "would lead to new trouble."

The statement came as rival Israeli-Egyptian positions on a Middle East settlement appeared to harden as a U. N.-imposed midnight deadline neared for Israel's withdrawal from all Egyptian territory including the Gaza Strip.

At the same time, 70 Democratic senators in Washington called on U. S. Secretary of State Dulles to insist that Nasser help contribute to a solution to Middle East problems.

Saying they "understand" Israel's reluctance to withdraw from Egyptian territory, the Democrats asked for assurance against a return to conditions under which Nasser barred Israeli shipping from the Suez Canal.

Then in a reference to President Eisenhower's Middle East program, they said:

"IT IS A FUTILE enterprise to erect defenses against external Soviet aggression if we ignore the danger that a Communist-armed or Communist-inspired power is in a position, at any time it wishes, to close this major waterway."

The Communist New China News Agency, reporting an interview Nasser gave Chinese reporters, said the Egyptian leader declared he would give his views on the Eisenhower plan after the United States had given further explanation. He described the plan as vague.

The Red agency's report quoted Nasser as saying proposals to internationalize the Gaza area and the Gulf of Aqaba Coast "mean supporting aggression and giving benefits to aggressors.

"These areas are Egyptian territory and any interference in Egyptian territory is a violation of Egypt's sovereignty which we oppose completely."

Only the western coast of the Aqaba Gulf is actually Egyptian territory. The Gaza Strip was occupied by Egypt under the terms of the 1949 Palestine armistice, but its ultimate disposition was left to the peace treaty between Israel and the Arabs, which the Arabs have refused to negotiate.

Israel told the U. N. again Wednesday that it would not quit the Gaza Strip along the Mediterranean or the Gulf of Aqaba without concrete guarantees of protection.

Three Honored by Jaycees For Service to Community

RICHARD S. WATERS SR.

FRANK SOLLARS

Three men were honored by the Washington C. H. Junior Chamber of Commerce at its annual bosses' night dinner for their achievements and service to the community in which they live.

The dinner at the Country Club here Wednesday night was the highlight of National Jaycee Week.

Dr. Lawrence Burris, president, reviewed the accomplishments of the Washington C. H. Jaycees. Walter Morrow, chairman of the (senior) Chamber of Commerce Area Development Committee, and William Stoughton, manager of the Chamber, told the gathering of Jaycees and their wives and guests something of the of the outlook for Washington C. H.

Robert Callison, a past Jaycee president serving as toastmaster, introduced Dr. Burris, who cited participation in the teen-age rodeo, Scout-O-Rama, Fourth of July celebration, comfort station construction at the park, Halloween Jamboree, support of the school bond proposal, Christmas decorating, and a leadership training course as some of the year's accomplishments.

ENGRAVED plaques were presented to Thomas H. Mark, Frank Sollars and Richard S. Waters, Sr., for their contributions to the community.

The Jaycee Distinguished Service Award was presented to Mark by Horace Jacobs. He pointed out the interest of Mark, president of the (senior) Chamber of Commerce, in the Red Cross blood program, the church and many civic activities. Jacobs noted that the Distinguished Service Award does not necessarily have to go to a member of the Jaycee, although Mark has been active in that organization.

The award for the county's outstanding young farmer was presented to Frank Sollars by Frank Weade, a farmer member of the Jaycee. He called attention especially to Sollars' achievements in soil and water conservation, along with his overall grain and livestock farming program.

DR. BURRIS announced the selection of Waters for an honorary member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, both local and national. He pointed to the part Waters had played in many community betterment projects, mentioning especially the leadership—and actual work—in the development of the public park on Millikan Ave. as a community recreation center, the band room in Washington C. H. High School and the band stand at the high school stadium at Gardner Park.

Those accorded Jaycee honors at the dinner were selected by a board made up of non-members of the Jaycee from among sever-

Mystery Deepens In Girls' Deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — Investigators seeking clues in the slaying of the teen-age Grimes sisters were confronted today with a new mystery, the cause of their deaths.

Science may furnish the answer. But it was not apparent to expert pathologists after a five-hour examination of the girls' bodies Wednesday.

The pathologists also could not estimate the date of the deaths of Barbara Grimes, 15, and her 13-year-old sister Patricia. They disappeared on the night of Dec. 28 after leaving home to attend a movie. Their nude bodies were found Tuesday in a rural roadside ditch in suburban Willow Springs.

"This is one of the roughest cases I've ever seen in my years with the coroner's office," said Dr. Jerry Kearns, chief pathologist of St. Elizabeth's Hospital and former pathologist for many years for the coroner's office.

"THE MURDER in this case was diabolically clever," Kearns said. "He used a method which we are unable to detect. Perhaps he is a person trained in chemistry and with a knowledge of unusual poisons."

The autopsy findings disclosed the sisters had not been molested sexually; did not die by strangulation, or carbon monoxide poisoning; no signs of external violence on the bodies that could have caused death; and that the bodies appeared to have been exposed to cold temperatures for some time.

Tissue from the bodies was sent to Dr. Walter J. R. Camp, state police toxicologist, for analysis, a process that will take from 10 days to two weeks.

The pathologists said three puncture wounds on Patricia's chest, earlier believed to have been caused by an ice pick or a similar weapon, were only superficial.

Meanwhile, Donald S. Hostetter, FBI chief in Chicago, said a demand note sent to the girls' mother, Mrs. Loretta Grimes, 48, was being investigated. He said the FBI entered the case Jan. 7 after Mrs. Grimes received the first of nine notes concerning her daughters, then listed as missing. Mrs. Grimes is divorced from the girls' father Joseph, 48, a truck driver.

Hostetter said eight other notes, each demanding $1,000 to be delivered in Milwaukee, have been traced to a mental patient at a veterans hospital near Chicago. He said these notes have been discarded as possible clues.

Drastic Slash Is Ordered by Gov. O'Neill

Askings for 1957 $266 Million over Previous Ohio Bill

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Gov. C William O'Neill today ordered drastic cuts in "fantastic" department budget requests to prevent state bankruptcy.

The new governor said major requests for operating funds for the next two years exceeded appropriations of the previous biennium by $266 million.

Terming the request fantastic, O'Neill told newsmen:

"If these requests were to be approved, in my opinion, it would bankrupt the state."

O'Neill said the requests involved general revenues and were exclusive of highway and capital improvement funds. General revenue appropriations of two years ago total $750 million. The total budget including other funds was $931 million.

The governor said a few more budget requests are expected but that major estimates were in.

ON THAT BASIS, requests for general revenue funds to operate the state for the two year bookkeeping period starting next July 1 approximate $1 billion.

O'Neill said the appropriation requests were received before the took office Jan. 14. "If these requests were to be approved," he said, "It is obvious that vast new taxes would be required to meet them."

The governor indicated that cuts would not be made across the board on a percentage basis. He said figures showed that some departments spent more in the last biennium than was appropriated.

The governor said Wilcoxon, who served under former Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, will be the new superintendent of the budget. Wilcoxon will fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Walter Garrison as budget superintendent. O'Neill said he was not ready to name his new finance director.

Meanwhile, Charles M. Noble, Ohio's new highway chief, put the Buckeye state in a national race to build new long roads which will

10-Year-Old Mine Fire To Be 'Dug' Out

The federal and state governments, along with authorities of this city of 15,000, expect to spend more than $2 million in a massive excavation job in the 120-acre area affected by the underground blaze.

The project may take as long as 10 years to complete. Some 320 families will be relocated in "temporary" homes and 357 dwellings will be torn down as the work goes on.

According to plans, the fire will be attacked from three directions at once. The average "cuts"—the area actually will be strip-mined—will reach a depth of 90 feet and a width of 270 feet.

The first job is to contain the blaze and prevent its spreading across a line which borders the approaches to the downtown business district.

The fire, fed by rich coal deposits, originally affected only a 25-acre area. It began in an abandoned strip mine on the west side of town in August, 1946.

A portion of the cost of the project will be paid off by an estimated $425,000 in royalties on coal unearthed in the "big dig."

Ike Not Planning Any Trips Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower apparently has ruled out a trip abroad in the predictable future.

India's Prime Minister Nehru extended an invitation during his United States visit in December.

Wednesday Eisenhower told his news conference that while he hopes many foreign leaders will visit him in Washington, he has "no plans to go anywhere outside the United States."

He said the special nature of the Presidency makes it "rather awkward" for him to be away.

Tropical Fungi Harming Rockets

WHITE SANDS, N. M. (AP)—A specialist in fungi says a careful watch is necessary to keep such plant growths off rockets.

He says such growths could interfere with tracking rockets in flight and also that the missiles might veer off course.

Flight of James Alfred White Ended

Master Safe-Cracker Captured

Just 10 days after James Alfred White was put on the Federal Bureau of Investigation's list of "10 most wanted men," he was arrested in Memphis, Tenn.

White, who grew up in the Mount Sterling and Waterloo communities, had come to be known among law enforcement officers as a master safe - cracker, largely through his activities outside the law while he was living quietly in Washington C. H. as a produce dealer.

Washington C. H. police first learned that the quiet 51-year-old White was wanted for burglary two years ago, when his pal in a holdup in Hamlin, W. Va., not only gave officers there his name, but also his address in Washington C. H.

Police went to the big gray brick house at the corner of Oakland and Dayton Aves. — after they finally located it from the vague description — but White had gone.

They talked to Mrs. White and kept her and the house under surveillance for more than a year, but never caught up with him. Mrs. White left after a few months, but kept the rent paid and left the furniture there. When she came back to sell the furniture, police talked with her, but she told them she did not know where her much-wanted husband was.

The capture of White in a small hotel in Memphis early Thursday morning brought to an end the long vigil of police here as well as the hunt for him by the FBI.

ALFRED JAMES WHITE

He was nabbed when FBI agents, acting on a tip, lay in wait for him.

White had been sought since June 7, 1954, for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for assault It was on that date, the FBI said, that White escaped from police at West Hamlin, W. Va., after a gun battle that started when officers broke up an attempted burglary.

The FBI said White, a native of Mount Sterling, Ohio, has had previous convictions for larceny, automobile theft and robbery, and was listed as a parole violator.

C. E. Piper, agent in charge of the Memphis office, said White offered no resistance and admitted his identity.

Piper said White was unarmed but that after he was captured agents found three pistols, a sawed-off shotgun, a knife and an air rifle in his automobile.

He had been living under an alias at the hotel since last November. White, Piper said, refused to say what he had been doing since his arrival here or since the FBI picked up his trail two years ago.

Three other members of the family broke through a window and escaped with cuts and minor burns for which they were treated and released at Barberton Citizens Hospital. The three were Mrs. Effie Duweese, 55, and two sons, Billy, 15, an dGilbert, 30.

Firemen said the blaze was caused by an over-heated stove.

Man Said 'Sober as Judge' After Courtroom Drink Test

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — William C. Rose, a 238-pounder who drinks his whisky straight—and often—proved in court he can down 20 slugs and still remain "as sober as the judge."

Whether he drank himself scott free of a drunken driving charge still is undetermined. City Court Judge Francis A. Sobieski said he probably will hand down a decision Friday.

Rose was quick with his own verdict. Declaring he was "sober as the judge" after the courtroom demonstration, he said he hoped to prove that a reading by the city's drunkometer was no accurate measure of a man's ability to hold his liquor and still drive a car safely.

The 44-year - old apartment house manager, who likes his pint of spirits every day, was arrested Dec. 15. Tested by the drunkometer, his reading came up .246. A person who gets a reading of .150 (which indicates 150 thousandths of 1 per cent of alcohol in the bloodstream) is considered drunk by law.

Rose and his attorneys challenged the accuracy of the drunkometer. The judge agreed to a courtroom test.

Rose came in with three pints of an 86-proof whisky.

He drank almost a pint and a half in about 4½ hours. He took it straight, with ice water chasers. He had several cups of coffee during that time and a half a sandwich at lunch.

But he never got drunk. The judge halted the test after the 20th shot and Rose took a drunkometer test. The reading was far shy of the "drunk" minimum and less than half the reading officers reported the night he was arrested at that time, he claimed, he had downed "only seven or eight drinks."

But after the 20th shot in court, he was slurring his words a bit and talking much louder. He still was able to navigate without any particular stagger or sway. Visual and reaction tests showed his efficiency had dropped in all phases except depth perception.

When it was over, the judge instructed his attorneys to get him home safely—with someone else driving.

Rose said he'd brought a friend along for that purpose, just to be on the safe side.

Brief 'Spring' Is Ended by Gusty Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold weather persisted over most of the Midwest and spread into most of the eastern third of the country today, ending a brief spell of spring-like temperatures.

Temperatures in the eastern area dropped quickly as gusty winds brought in the icy air. Readings ranged from the 30s and 40s in the Gulf States to the teens in the Ohio Valley. Marks in the 30s and 40s also were reported in the Carolinas and ranged to around zero in New England. Southern Florida escapped the chill.

Sub-zero weather was indicated in sections of the northeast, some 40 to 50 degrees lower than Wednesday morning.

It was cold in most of the midwest, with readings below freezing.

Snow flurries or showers were in prospect during the day in most of the interior sections of the country from the Rockies westward to the coast and eastward across the northern plains into the upper Mississippi Valley and northern Great Lakes. Freezing rain, sleet or snow was indicated in most of the central plains eastward into the Ohio Valley.

Walter Morrow, chairman of the (senior) Chamber of Commerce Area Development Committee, and William Stoughton, manager of the Chamber, told the gathering of Jaycees and their wives and guests something of the of the outlook for Washington C. H.

Robert Callison, a past Jaycee president serving as toastmaster, introduced Dr. Burris, who cited participation in the teen-age rodeo, Scout-O-Rama, Fourth of July celebration, comfort station construction at the park, Halloween Jamboree, support of the school bond proposal, Christmas decorating, and a leadership training course as some of the year's accomplishments.

ENGRAVED plaques were presented to Thomas H. Mark, Frank Sollars and Richard S. Waters, Sr., for their contributions to the community.

The Jaycee Distinguished Service Award was presented to Mark by Horace Jacobs. He pointed out the interest of Mark, president of the (senior) Chamber of Commerce, in the Red Cross blood program, the church and many civic activities. Jacobs noted that the Distinguished Service Award does not necessarily have to go to a member of the Jaycee, although Mark has been active in that organization.

The award for the county's outstanding young farmer was presented to Frank Sollars by Frank Weade, a farmer member of the Jaycee. He called attention especially to Sollars' achievements in soil and water conservation, along with his overall grain and livestock farming program.

DR. BURRIS announced the selection of Waters for an honorary member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, both local and national. He pointed to the part Waters had played in many community betterment projects, mentioning especially the leadership—and actual work—in the development of the public park on Millikan Ave. as a community recreation center, the band room in Washington C. H. High School and the band stand at the high school stadium at Gardner Park.

Those accorded Jaycee honors at the dinner were selected by a board made up of non-members of the Jaycee from among sever-

Mystery Deepens In Girls' Deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — Investigators seeking clues in the slaying of the teen-age Grimes sisters were confronted today with a new mystery, the cause of their deaths.

Science may furnish the answer. But it was not apparent to expert pathologists after a five-hour examination of the girls' bodies Wednesday.

The pathologists also could not estimate the date of the deaths of Barbara Grimes, 15, and her 13-year-old sister Patricia. They disappeared on the night of Dec. 28 after leaving home to attend a movie. Their nude bodies were found Tuesday in a rural roadside ditch in suburban Willow Springs.

"This is one of the roughest cases I've ever seen in my years with the coroner's office," said Dr. Jerry Kearns, chief pathologist of St. Elizabeth's Hospital and former pathologist for many years for the coroner's office.

"THE MURDER in this case was diabolically clever," Kearns said. "He used a method which we are unable to detect. Perhaps he is a person trained in chemistry and with a knowledge of unusual poisons."

The autopsy findings disclosed the sisters had not been molested sexually; did not die by strangulation, or carbon monoxide poisoning; no signs of external violence on the bodies that could have caused death; and that the bodies appeared to have been exposed to cold temperatures for some time.

Tissue from the bodies was sent to Dr. Walter J. R. Camp, state police toxicologist, for analysis, a process that will take from 10 days to two weeks.

The pathologists said three puncture wounds on Patricia's chest, earlier believed to have been caused by an ice pick or a similar weapon, were only superficial.

Meanwhile, Donald S. Hostetter, FBI chief in Chicago, said a demand note sent to the girls' mother. Mrs. Loretta Grimes, 48, was being investigated. He said the FBI entered the case Jan. 7 after Mrs. Grimes received the first of nine notes concerning her daughters, then listed as missing. Mrs. Grimes is divorced from the girls' father Joseph, 48, a truck driver.

Hostetter said eight other notes, each demanding $1,000 to be delivered in Milwaukee, have been traced to a mental patient at a veterans hospital near Chicago. He said these notes have been discarded as possible clues.

Drastic Slash Is Ordered by Gov. O'Neill

Askings for 1957 $266 Million over Previous Ohio Bill

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio Gov. C William O'Neill today ordered drastic cuts in "fantastic" department budget requests to prevent state bankruptcy.

The new governor said major requests for operating funds for the next two years exceeded appropriations of the previous biennium by $266 million.

Terming the request fantastic, O'Neill told newsmen:

"If these requests were to be approved, in my opinion, it would bankrupt the state."

O'Neill said the requests involved general revenues and were exclusive of highway and capital improvement funds. General revenue appropriations of two years ago total $750 million. The total budget including other funds was $931 million.

The governor said a few more budget requests are expected but that major estimates were in.

ON THAT BASIS, requests for general revenue funds to operate the state for the two year bookkeeping period starting next July 1 approximate $1 billion.

O'Neill said the appropriation requests were received before the took office Jan. 14. "If these requests were to be approved," he said, "It is obvious that vast new taxes would be required to meet them."

The governor indicated that cuts would not be made across the board on a percentage basis. He said figures showed that some departments spent more in the last biennium than was appropriated.

The governor said Wilcoxon, who served under former Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche, will be the new superintendent of the budget. Wilcoxon will fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Walter Garrison as budget superintendent. O'Neill said he was not ready to name his new finance director.

Meanwhile, Charles M. Noble, Ohio's new highway chief, put the Buckeye state in a national race to build new long roads which will

The federal and state governments, along with authorities of this city of 15,000, expect to spend more than $2 million in a massive excavation job in the 120-acre area affected by the underground blaze.

The project may take as long as 10 years to complete. Some 320 families will be relocated in "temporary" homes and 357 dwellings will be torn down as the work goes on.

According to plans, the fire will be attacked from three directions at once. The average "cuts"—the area actually will be strip-mined—will reach a depth of 90 feet and a width of 270 feet.

The first job is to contain the blaze and prevent its spreading across a line which borders the approaches to the downtown business district.

The fire, fed by rich coal deposits, originally affected only a 25-acre area. It began in an abandoned strip mine on the west side of town in August, 1946.

A portion of the cost of the project will be paid off by an estimated $425,000 in royalties on coal unearthed in the "big dig."

Ike Not Planning Any Trips Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower apparently has ruled out a trip abroad in the predictable future.

India's Prime Minister Nehru extended an invitation during his United States visit in December.

Wednesday Eisenhower told his news conference that while he hopes many foreign leaders will visit him in Washington, he has "no plans to go anywhere outside the United States."

He said the special nature of the Presidency makes it "rather awkward" for him to be away.

Tropical Fungi Harming Rockets

WHITE SANDS, N. M. (AP)—A specialist in fungi says a careful watch is necessary to keep such plant growths off rockets.

Howard Aronson, experimenting with tropical fungi at this rocket test base, says the growth appear on missiles after unpacking in tropical climates, much like mold on bread.

He says such growths could interfere with tracking rockets in flight and also that the missiles might veer off course.

Flight of James Alfred White Ended

Master Safe-Cracker Captured

Just 10 days after James Alfred White was put on the Federal Bureau of Investigation's list of "10 most wanted men," he was arrested in Memphis, Tenn.

White, who grew up in the Mount Sterling and Waterloo communities, had come to be known among law enforcement officers as a master safe - cracker, largely through his activities outside the law while he was living quietly in Washington C. H. as a produce dealer.

Washington C. H. police first learned that the quiet 51-year-old White was wanted for burglary two years ago, when his pal in a holdup in Hamlin, W. Va., not only gave officers there his name, but also his address in Washington C. H.

Police went to the big gray brick house at the corner of Oakland and Dayton Aves. — after they finally located it from the vague description — but White had gone.

They talked to Mrs. White and kept her and the house under surveillance for more than a year, but never caught up with him. Mrs. White left after a few months, but kept the rent paid and left the furniture there. When she came back to sell the furniture, police talked with her, but she told them she did not know where her much-wanted husband was.

The capture of White in a small hotel in Memphis early Thursday morning brought to an end the long vigil of police here as well as the hunt for him by the FBI.

ALFRED JAMES WHITE

He was nabbed when FBI agents, acting on a tip, lay in wait for him.

White had been sought since June 7, 1954, for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for assault It was on that date, the FBI said, that White escaped from police at West Hamlin, W. Va., after a gun battle that started when officers broke up an attempted burglary.

The FBI said White, a native of Mount Sterling, Ohio, has had previous convictions for larceny, automobile theft and robbery, and was listed as a parole violator.

C. E. Piper, agent in charge of the Memphis office, said White offered no resistance and admitted his identity.

Piper said White was unarmed but that after he was captured agents found three pistols, a sawed-off shotgun, a knife and an air rifle in his automobile.

He had been living under an alias at the hotel since last November. White, Piper said, refused to say what he had been doing since his arrival here or since the FBI picked up his trail two years ago.

Father and Son Die in Home Fire

BARBERTON (AP)—Two men, a father and son, died Wednesday night in a fire which trapped them while they were asleep at their home here. They were Herman Duweese, 56, and his son, Ralph, 26.

Three other members of the family broke through a window and escaped with cuts and minor burns for which they were treated and released at Barberton Citizens Hospital. The three were Mrs. Effie Duweese, 55, and two sons, Billy, 15, an dGilbert, 30.

Firemen said the blaze was caused by an over-heated stove.

Man Said 'Sober as Judge' After Courtroom Drink Test

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — William C. Rose, a 238-pounder who drinks his whisky straight—and often—proved in court he can down 20 slugs and still remain "as sober as the judge."

Whether he drank himself scott free of a drunken driving charge still is undetermined. City Court Judge Francis A. Sobieski said he probably will hand down a decision Friday.

Rose was quick with his own verdict. Declaring he was "sober as the judge" after the courtroom demonstration, he said he hoped to prove that a reading by the city's drunkometer was no accurate measure of a man's ability to hold his liquor and still drive a car safely.

The 44-year - old apartment house manager, who likes his pint of spirits every day, was arrested Dec. 15. Tested by the drunkometer, his reading came up .246. A person who gets a reading of .150 (which indicates 150 thousandths of 1 per cent of alcohol in the bloodstream) is considered drunk by law.

Rose and his attorneys challenged the accuracy of the drunkometer. The judge agreed to a courtroom test.

Rose came in with three pints of an 86-proof whisky.

He drank almost a pint and a half in about 4½ hours. He took it straight, with ice water chasers. He had several cups of coffee during that time and a half a sandwich at lunch.

But he never got drunk. The judge halted the test after the 20th shot and Rose took a drunkometer test. The reading was far shy of the "drunk" minimum and less than half the reading officers reported the night he was arrested at that time, he claimed, he had downed "only seven or eight drinks."

But after the 20th shot in court, he was slurring his words a bit and talking much louder. He still was able to navigate without any particular stagger or sway. Visual and reaction tests showed his efficiency had dropped in all phases except depth perception.

When it was over, the judge instructed his attorneys to get him home safely—with someone else driving.

Rose said he'd brought a friend along for that purpose, just to be on the safe side.

Brief 'Spring' Is Ended by Gusty Chill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold weather persisted over most of the Midwest and spread into most of the eastern third of the country today, ending a brief spell of spring-like temperatures.

Temperatures in the eastern area dropped quickly as gusty winds brought in the icy air. Readings ranged from the 30s and 40s in the Gulf States to the teens in the Ohio Valley. Marks in the 30s and 40s also were reported in the Carolinas and ranged to around zero in New England. Southern Florida escapped the chill.

Sub-zero weather was indicated in sections of the northeast, some 40 to 50 degrees lower than Wednesday morning.

It was cold in most of the midwest, with readings below freezing.

Snow flurries or showers were in prospect during the day in most of the interior sections of the country from the Rockies westward to the coast and eastward across the northern plains into the upper Mississippi Valley and northern Great Lakes. Freezing rain, sleet or snow was indicated in most of the central plains eastward into the Ohio Valley.

O'Neill's Policy Message Due Next Monday

State Legislators Grow Anxious about Governor's Proposals

In the next few days the new Republican governor will put the final polish on his "State-of-the-State" message, scheduled for delivery to a joint session of the Ohio Legislature Monday night.

The message is expected to contain much of O'Neill's proposed two-year program.

Everyone in the Legislature professes complete ignorance of the solutions O'Neill will propose for the state's problems — mostly financial. The professed ignorance extends down the line from veterans through the freshmen rank-and-file members.

MURMURS OF surprise have begun to drift through legislative corridors because closer liaison has not yet developed between the all-Republican Legislature and the governor's office, which is in GOP hands for the first time in eight years.

Most lawmakers are inclined to the view that the new administration needs a few more days to get its feet on the ground, that present apparent uncertainties will turn into a confident approach to state problems in a few days. The administration, they point out, is only 10 days old.

The Legislature wound up its third abbreviated work week Wednesday by receiving 30 more bills. The total now stands at 171.

One would require that a driver have it in his possession whenever he operates a motor vehicle.

The other would require that any violation of motor vehicle laws, whether the conviction is in a court of record or not, be posted on the offender's license and reported to the state registrar of motor vehicles.

A RECENT OPINION by that state official held that failure to carry a license while driving is not a violation of law.

The second, by Sen. Robert R. Shaw (R-Franklin) would make official notations of convictions of motor vehicle law violations in justice of peace courts and mayors' courts. As the law now stands, convictions are noted on licenses only when they arise in so-called "courts of record." These are the municipal courts, the courts of common pleas and on up.

Other proposals would:

Require venting of gas - fired heating units.

Require a 50-50 split of grade-crossing elimination costs between railroads and cities, present split is 85 per cent for cities and 15 for railroads.

Prohibit disciplinary suspension of state civil service employes without pay.

connect main cities and industrial areas.

At his first press conference, Noble said the state that wins out in building new roads will also come out first in building up industry, commerce and agriculture.

Noble, because he just moved to Ohio from New Jersey where he was chief engineer of the New Jersey Turnpike, cannot become Ohio highway director for a year.

He is highway consultant at $30,000 a year and will become highway director after one year. But he is still head man.

Noble praised the work of Samuel O. Linzell, who will be highway director a few more days while Noble is filled in on the department's work. He paid tribute to Linzell as a "great director" and said the department is known nationally for its good work.

Noble was asked for comments on Ohio's road building program that was submitted to O'Neill Jan. 15.

IT IS A $420 million program that will be spread out over a two-year period beginning July 1.

Noble said it is premature for him to comment on the program although there may have to be some juggling of projects.

The construction program which the governor is reviewing before presenting it to the state legislature includes 87 projects on which work would begin and 111 others for which right-of-way land would be purchased. The 87 construction projects would provide 368 miles of new roads, mainly in rural areas. They include 20 traffic bypasses around cities totaling 113 miles and 22 projects inside cities for 24 miles of new roads.

in Cairo as an urgent sign the U.N. must act swiftly to avert another violent explosion in the Middle East. Egypt and the other nations of the Asian-Egypt bloc expected to demand that the U.N. impose economic penalties on Israel to force withdrawal from the two areas on the Egyptian side of the 1949 armistice line.

The 80-nation General Assembly set the midnight deadline for a report from Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on Israel's response to the U.N. demand.

HAMMARSKJOLD was not expected to announce his findings until Friday, but Israel's reiteration of its stand seemed to make obvious what he could report.

The latest Israeli statement, delivered to Hammarskjold in a seven-page memorandum, apparently set the stage for another major Middle East debate in the Assembly starting Monday. Diplomats said it would deal not only with Israeli troop movements but also would go into the whole future of the U.N. Emergency Force in Egypt.

Most delegates felt a resolution amounting to a call for a boycott of Israel would have trouble clearing the Assembly.

Reports from Cairo said Egypt might halt the clearing of the Suez Canal if the U.N. turned down a demand for sanctions. They declared the situation would then become more critical than the period that preceded the October invasion of Egypt.

A slowdown in canal clearance work already was reported by some Egyptian and U.N. sources.

The Cairo newspaper Al Messaa also warned Egypt may resort to military action as well as clearance delays to force the Israelis to move out.

News in Brief

Canada Hints Of Red Flights

OTTAWA (AP)—Competent Canadian officials say they believe Russian planes occasionally make reconnaissance flights over northern Canada and Alaska.

They say that as far as they know no Canadian or American plane has ever been able to intercept such a flight. The United States has jet fighters stationed in Alaska but Canada has no interceptors based that far north.

Thus there has not been positive identification of a Soviet plane flying over northern Canada. Generally only vapor trails of aircraft have been seen, so high that the planes themselves were not visible.

Such vapor trails have been spotted over the Queen Elizabeth Islands in Canada's northern archipelago at a time when it was known that no Canadian or American planes were in the area. Therefore it was assumed the vapor trails came from Russian reconnaissance planes.

No particular alarm is expressed in Ottawa about the Russian reconnaissance flights, if that is what they are. It is believed the Russians can gain liitle or no valuable information from them.

NEW DELHI (AP) — Fifteen persons are reported dead following clashes between police and followers of a self-styled "god" in a remote village 100 miles east of New Delhi.

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Jerusalem Post said today Syria will soon have several squadrons of MIG17 jet fighters and two Soviet-equipped armored divisions. The usually well informed newspaper said both will be commanded by Russians. "There will also be numerous torpedo boats from the Black Sea and a small 'sample' submarine," the newspaper reported.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) —Dynamiters of the outlawed Irish Republican Army today blew up two bridges over the Blackwater River near Anughnacloy, in County Tyrone.

It was the fourth foray in two days by the IRA, which has recently stepped up its violence campaign seeking to unite British Northern Ireland's six counties the Irish Republic.

British Medic Facing Trial For Murder

The 58-year-old society physician, asked if he had anything to say, replied:

"I am not guilty and I reserve my defense."

The chubby, Irish-born physician is charged with the murder of Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81-year-old widow, in 1950. Scotland Yard has accused Dr. Adams also of murdering Alfred John Hullett and his wife, Gertrude Hullett.

The prosecution said Mrs. Morrell and Hullett were drugged to death and Mrs. Hullett driven to suicide and that Dr. Adams benefitted from their wills and gifts.

The magistrates' decision, similar in American legal procedure to the decision of a grand jury, came after a preliminary hearing lasting two weeks.

The magistrates themselves, three men and two women, retired for half an hour after prosecution and defense had summed up the case. They could have released the doctor or charged him with manslaughter.

in his custody since that time and that it was inspected by at least four interested people.

Names on the document were checked against pollbooks by these same persons last week, he testified.

In reply to questioning Hilty said he called the attention of the county board to the petition, but he stated thathe did not recall the exact date that "placed it on the table".

THE BOARD minutes for Nov. 26, the next meeting date after receipt of the document, make no mention of the document. The superintendent said that minutes were kept of all official action at board meetings.

Hilty said that the petition was in his possession at all times and that he took it home with him, but that no copies of it were made until last week.

The plaintiffs, in their opening statement, alleged that the county superintendent failed in his duties imposed by statute when he failed to call a Citizens Committee convention and that the county board was remiss in failing to authorize one of its members to serve on the convention panel.

At the same time, the plaintiffs charge, the other defendant boards failed to name delegates.

Princess, Baby Reported Doing OK

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Princess Grace's doctors said she could get out of bed for an hour this afternoon, less than 30 hours after the birth of her first child.

The palace physicians announced the former Hollywood movie star would be allowed up at increasingly frequent intervals after her first time on her feet.

Princess Grace and her baby, Princess Caroline, were reported in excellent condition. The 26-year-old mother spent a quiet night. The blue-eyed, dark-haired baby slept in the royal crib at her bedside from midnight until 6 a. m., without waking.

Road Death Toll, Lax Police Linked

BOSTON (AP) — A safety official says some law enforcement laxity has contributed to the 40,200 deaths on American highways last year.

Terming 1956 traffic safety's "blackest year" Richard O. Bennett of Chicago, director of the automotive division of the National Assn. of Automobile Mutual Insurance Companies, charged some law officials with "dragging their feet" in traffic law enforcement.

Bennett, a former policeman, called for "more attention to show who have the authority and the opportunity to control traffic accidents but do not."

O'Neill's Policy Message Due Next Monday

State Legislators Grow Anxious about Governor's Proposals

In the next few days the new Republican governor will put the final polish on his "State-of-the-State" message, scheduled for delivery to a joint session of the Ohio Legislature Monday night.

The message is expected to contain much of O'Neill's proposed two-year program.

Everyone in the Legislature professes complete ignorance of the solutions O'Neill will propose for the state's problems — mostly financial. The professed ignorance extends down the line from veterans through the freshmen rank-and-file members.

MURMURS OF surprise have begun to drift through legislative corridors because a closer liaison has not yet developed between the all-Republican Legislature and the governor's office, which is in GOP hands for the first time in eight years.

Most lawmakers are inclined to the view that the new administration needs a few more days to get its feet on the ground, that present apparent uncertainties will turn into a confident approach to state problems in a few days. The administration, they point out, is only 10 days old.

The Legislature wound up its third abbreviated work week Wednesday by receiving 30 more bills. The total now stands at 171.

Two of Wednesday's bills dealt with a commonplace item — the driver's license.

One would require that a driver have it in his possession whenever he operates a motor vehicle.

The other would require that any violation of motor vehicle laws, whether the conviction is in a court of record or not, be posted on the offender's license and reported to the state registrar of motor vehicles.

A RECENT OPINION by that state official held that failure to carry a license while driving is not a violation of law.

The second, by Sen. Robert R. Shaw (R-Franklin) would make official notations of convictions of motor vehicle law violations in justice of peace courts and mayors' courts. As the law now stands, convictions are noted on licenses only when they arise in so-called "courts of record." These are the municipal courts, the courts of common pleas and on up.

Other proposals would:

Require venting of gas - fired heating units.

Require a 50-50 split of grade-crossing elimination costs between railroads and cities, present split is 85 per cent for cities and 15 for railroads.

Prohibit disciplinary suspension of state civil service employes without pay.

connect main cities and industrial areas.

At his first press conference, Noble said the state that wins out in building new roads will also come out first in building up industry, commerce and agriculture.

Noble, because he just moved to Ohio from New Jersey where he was chief engineer of the New Jersey Turnpike, cannot become Ohio highway director for a year.

He is highway consultant at $30,000 a year and will become highway director after one year. But he is still head man.

Noble praised the work of Samuel O. Linzell, who will be highway director a few more days while Noble is filled in on the department's work. He paid tribute to Linzell as a "great director" and said the department is known nationally for its good work.

Noble was asked for comments on Ohio's road building program that was submitted to O'Neill Jan. 15.

IT IS A $420 million program that will be spread out over a two-year period beginning July 1.

Noble said it is premature for him to comment on the program although there may have to be some juggling of projects.

The construction program which the governor is reviewing before presenting it to the state legislature includes 87 projects on which work would begin and 111 others for which right-of-way land would be purchased. The 87 construction projects would provide 368 miles of new roads, mainly in rural areas. They include 20 traffic bypasses around cities totaling 113 miles and 22 projects inside cities for 24 miles of new roads.

in Cairo as an urgent sign the U.N. must act swiftly to avert another violent explosion in the Middle East. Egypt and the other nations of the Asian-Egypt bloc expected to demand that the U.N. impose economic penalties on Israel to force withdrawal from the two areas on the Egyptian side of the 1949 armistice line.

The 80-nation General Assembly set the midnight deadline for a report from Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on Israel's response to the U.N. demand.

HAMMARSKJOLD was not expected to announce his findings until Friday, but Israel's reiteration of its stand seemed to make obvious what he could report.

The latest Israeli statement, delivered to Hammarskjold in a seven-page memorandum, apparently set the stage for another major Middle East debate in the Assembly starting Monday. Diplomats said it would deal not only with Israeli troop movements but also would go into the whole future of the U.N. Emergency Force in Egypt.

Most delegates felt a resolution amounting to a call for a boycott of Israel would have trouble clearing the Assembly.

Reports from Cairo said Egypt might halt the clearing of the Suez Canal if the U.N. turned down a demand for sanctions. They declared the situation would then become more critical than the period that preceded the October invasion of Egypt.

A slowdown in canal clearance work already was reported by some Egyptian and U.N. sources.

The Cairo newspaper Al Messaa also warned Egypt may resort to military action as well as clearance delays to force the Israelis to move out.

News in Brief

Canada Hints Of Red Flights

OTTAWA (AP)—Competent Canadian officials say they believe Russian planes occasionally make reconnaissance flights over northern Canada and Alaska.

They say that as far as they know no Canadian or American plane has ever been able to intercept such a flight. The United States has jet fighters stationed in Alaska but Canada has no interceptors based that far north.

Thus there has not been positive identification of a Soviet plane flying over northern Canada. Generally only vapor trails of aircraft have been seen, so high that the planes themselves were not visible.

Such vapor trails have been spotted over the Queen Elizabeth Islands in Canada's northern archipelago at a time when it was known that no Canadian or American planes were in the area. Therefore it was assumed the vapor trails came from Russian reconnaissance planes.

No particular alarm is expressed in Ottawa about the Russian reconnaissance flights, if that is what they are. It is believed the Russians can gain little or no valuable information from them.

NEW DELHI (AP) — Fifteen persons are reported dead following clashes between police and followers of a self-styled "god" in a remote village 100 miles east of New Delhi.

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Jerusalem Post said today Syria will soon have several squadrons of MIG17 jet fighters and two Soviet-equipped armored divisions. The usually well informed newspaper said both will be commanded by Russians. "There will also be numerous torpedo boats from the Black Sea and a small 'sample' submarine," the newspaper reported.

WARSAW (AP)—A Polish economic delegation is expected to leave for the United States within two weeks for talks on long-term credits.

BAGHDAD (AP)—A Foreign Minister spokesman has denied flatly a report from Lebanon that Iraqu Premier Nuri Said has resigned.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—Sixteen persons are presumed dead in the crash of a two-engine Nicaraguan airliner on Mt. Concepcion. All were believed to have been Nicaraguans.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) —Dynamiters of the outlawed Irish Republican Army today blew up two bridges over the Blackwater River near Anughnacloy, in County Tyrone.

It was the fourth foray in two days by the IRA, which has recently stepped up its violence campaign seeking to unite British Northern Ireland's six counties the Irish Republic.

British Medic Facing Trial For Murder

The 58-year-old society physician, asked if he had anything to say, replied:

"I am not guilty and I reserve my defense."

The chubby, Irish-born physician is charged with the murder of Mrs. Edith Morrell, 81-year-old widow, in 1950. Scotland Yard has accused Dr. Adams also of murdering Alfred John Hullett and his wife, Gertrude Hullett.

The prosecution said Mrs. Morrell and Hullett were drugged to death and Mrs. Hullett driven to suicide and that Dr. Adams benefitted from their wills and gifts.

The magistrates' decision, similar in American legal procedure to the decision of a grand jury, came after a preliminary hearing lasting two weeks.

The magistrates themselves, three men and two women, retired for half an hour after prosecution and defense had summed up the case. They could have released the doctor or charged him with manslaughter.

Dr. Adams is held for trial on the specific charge of murdering Mrs. Morrell.

in his custody since that time and that it was inspected by at least four interested people.

Names on the document were checked against pollbooks by these same persons last week, he testified.

In reply to questioning Hilty said he called the attention of the county board to the petition, but he stated thathe did not recall the exact date that "placed it on the table".

THE BOARD minutes for Nov. 26, the next meeting date after receipt of the document, make no mention of the document. The superintendent said that minutes were kept of all official action at board meetings.

Hilty said that the petition was in his possession at all times and that he took it home with him, but that no copies of it were made until last week.

The plaintiffs, in their opening statement, alleged that the county superintendent failed in his duties imposed by statute when he failed to call a Citizens Committee convention and that the county board was remiss in failing to authorize one of its members to serve on the convention panel.

At the same time, the plaintiffs charge, the other defendant boards failed to name delegates.

Princess, Baby Reported Doing OK

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Princess Grace's doctors said she could get out of bed for an hour this afternoon, less than 30 hours after the birth of her first child.

The palace physicians announced the former Hollywood movie star would be allowed up at increasingly frequent intervals after her first time on her feet.

Princess Grace and her baby, Princess Caroline, were reported in excellent condition. The 26-year-old mother spent a quiet night. The blue-eyed, dark-haired baby slept in the royal crib at her bedside from midnight until 6 a. m., without waking.

Road Death Toll, Lax Police Linked

BOSTON (AP) — A safety official says some law enforcement laxity has contributed to the 40,200 deaths on American highways last year.

Terming 1956 traffic safety's "blackest year" Richard O. Bennett of Chicago, director of the automotive division of the National Assn. of Automobile Mutual Insurance Companies, charged some law officials with "dragging their feet" in traffic law enforcement.

Bennett, a former policeman, called for "more attention to show who have the authority and the opportunity to control traffic accidents but do not."

Eisenhower Inaugural Address Showed Vision

There has been widespread talk about the second inaugural address delivered by President Dwight Eisenhower.

Most of the comment has been highly favorable although there were some who contend that there was not enough in the President's address about our domestic issues; also that the President's words were more directed for world consumption.

Perhaps that is what Eisenhower intended, because at this time the tenseness of many phases of our international relations is one of the big situations which our nation must face today if another World War is to be avoided.

The interpretation which has been given to his remarks, according to some critical listeners, was that it was a plea and evidence of expressed determination for our nation to take on more responsibility and be liberal with our finances in helping to adjust world problems.

Perhaps that also was what the president meant, although few can recall that his words were so bluntly directed on that phase of his speech. We doubt that Eisenhower meant anything more than that this nation should bear its full share of responsibility. Certainly he said what he could to give the people seeking freedom, especially those in Soviet dominated countries, some idea of hope for the future.

As to the President's words on our own land's domestic issues, it would seem reasonable, that he should not devote his inaugural talk to such domestic details which are a matter for local debate and Congressional action. There will be plenty of this in the near future and in this undoubtedly the President will definitely deliver his views.

On the whole, the Eisenhower second inaugural address, indicated that our President is a man of stature. He was convincing to most people and the feeling still exists among a great majority that they may assuredly believe they are safer with this man being our nation's chief executive today, than some others we have had who acted without proper judgement and created worse troubles than we have today.

For a Husband, Go to Dixie

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That ladies seeking a husband may find the best hunting in the United States in the South.

Census figures show, five of six women of marriageable age already have landed a man there, but one of every four men is still single. Maybe it's because he takes snuff.

That soap is believed to have first come into limited use about the time of Christ. Infant mortality today is lowest in countries having the largest per capita use of soap.

That the $20 bill is the only one that has a picture of the White House on it. It also bears the portrait of Andy Jackson, a Democratic President, but Democrats complain only Republicans can afford to see it.

That the mountain goat is perhaps the only horned mammal that regularly sits on its haunches. This item, I know, will bring me 816 letters from secretaries saying, "How about the old goat I work for? He does nothing but sit on his haunches, and if he doesn't have horns, he ought to!"

That Britain's war with France in 1695 was partly paid for by a tax on bachelors. Is that any odder than modern wars in which even the fighting soldier is taxed?

That an Iowa farmer named Don Radda grew a record corn stalk—31 feet 3 inches . . . . or nearly twice the height of the average Texan.

That Rosalind Russell, chosen one of the world's best-dressed women, has 18 changes of costume as "Aunt Mame" in the Broadway show. "That beats me by three," says my wife. "I've had 15 changes in the 19 years since I married you for a steady living."

That Col. Jim Bowie, who invented a new outdoor carving knife and died in the Alamo, was the dandy of the frontier. In his wardrobe were 40 shirts, 22 morning coats, 6 evening jackets, 4 capes, a silk top hat, and 3 buckskin shirts. On hunting trips he had all 3 buckskin shirts washed daily.

That the one question most often asked me by strange women at parties is, "Why doesn't the baseball umpire hold up his left hand to indicate a ball, just as he does his right hand to call a strike?" The only reason I can think of is that umpires probably need to keep the fingers of one hand free to count with.

Who's Running Hawaii?

By George Sokolsky

Sometime ago, I wrote a piece on the danger to Hawaiian statehood if Harry Bridges continued to control those outposts of American defenses.

I received many letters complaining that I was unfair to the Hawaiians, to Americans who lived there, to newspapers and radio stations, etc., etc.

So I have read carefully the transcript of the hearings in Honolulu of the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security. This committee went out to Honolulu to take testimony on the spot and was greeted by a strike, the object of which was to show that Harry Bridges is more powerful than a Senate committee.

It is an interesting record, with the usual number of Fifth Amendment witnesses and the usual attacks on the good will and fairness of the committee. I found very significant the testimony of Benjamin Franklin Dillingham, who was born in Honolulu and has lived there all his life and has held public office in the territory as well as engaging in private business.

Dillingham made the point:

". . .We depend upon shipping for virtually all our basic needs of life here. Outside of air mail and a few commodities that can be brought in by air, we have no trucking service, we have no railroads service to fall back on, to relate us, to tie us to other communities of the United States, we are depended upon ships. So when the shipping is cut off, we're not only denied access to the mainland for the sale of our products we produce here, and depend upon for a livelihood, but we are denied an opportunity to receive our food, our clothing, our necessary supplies."

Then he added:

"And when you realize, and as I say, except for the military, which is very substantial to be sure, but it is not by any means our staff of life, you might say, when you realize that the shipping and the pineapple and the sugar industries are subject to the whim of one man, you will understand the position this community is in every day, every week, every month of every year."

It is a frightening picture if true and as one reads the testimony it is obvious that Dillingham's statement must be true, particularly as one reads the evidence of union lawyers who seem to be among the most obstreperous witnesses ever to have appeared before any congressional committee. It must have been a trying experience for all parties concerned, but the over-all picture is one of an insolent acceptance of the authority of a feared master.

The question that naturally arises here is whether the control of the principal unions of Hawaii by Harry Bridges is in the best interests of the United States. The volume of testimony taken by the Internal Security Subcommittee is large and it leads to the conclusion that something has gone wrong on those beautiful islands that can no longer be covered up.

If the people of Hawaii have no way of getting rid of Bridges and his particular form of unionism, then they cannot expect a favorable response from Congress of their desire for statehood. The argument that conditions are no worse there than on the American mainland does not hold.

It is Hawaii that seeks statehood. It cannot be ignored that even public officials went to a testimonial dinner in honor of a man convicted under the Smith Act whose case is on appeal. The testimony is not clear as to how many went but it looked as though there was approval of Jack Hall's general position and while it is true that until a man has had all the benefits of due process up to the Supreme Court of the United States, there is the possibility that he might be regarded as not yet convicted, it is also true that the United States is in a precarious position, requiring a budget 71 billion dollars a preponderant part of which goes for which goes for the national defense. And that influences our thinking on many subjects.

Those Americans who prefer the enemy and support his cause cannot expect much friendship or enthusiasm from the Americans who anticipate that their young sons may be called to war because of the implacable enmity of Soviet Russia for the United States. Preparedness and taxes affect us all emotionally.

CD Phone Toll Mystery Solved

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP)—At the edge of the village of Salineville there is a post of the Civilian Defense Ground Observer Corps. And it seemed odd that telephone tolls were being listed from the Salineville post to Bergholz, in the Jefferson County.

Cleo Mellott, police chief in Salineville, began making an investigation. It developed that a 16-year-old boy had been slipping into the post to make calls to a girl friend in Bergholz.

The chief collected $6.50 from the boy's parents to take care of the unofficial calls.

Pravda Claims U. S. Plans War

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party has accused the United States of establishing bases for atomic-armed guided missiles around the perimeter of the Soviet Union. Pravda said this raised the threat of a great new war.

The organ of the Soviet party said reports in the U. S. press prove the United States is planning to equip its "bases" in Turkey, Iran, Japan, Okinawa, Alaska and Western Europe with guided missiles and atomic shells.

Some Tricks Help You Get to Sleep

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Do you have a difficult time getting to sleep? Well, maybe these suggestions will help speed you off to slumber.

Warm baths or showers usually are helpful, since they soothe you and calm your nerves. But don't rush. Take a leisurely bath.

Avoid cold baths or showers at night. Cold water is invigorating. It's fine for waking you in the morning, but it might hamper your sleep at night.

Soft Music

Listening to soft music on your radio or phonograph might help you get to sleep. Clock radios which switch off by themselves are useful—providing you don't lie awake listening for them to click off.

Dr. Henry Dantzig, author of "Tailor Your Bedtime" in "Blue Print for Health," advises music from woodwind and string instruments as especially relaxing.

Don't, he cautions, try to go to sleep listening to loud, fast brassy music or martial airs. Like a cold shower or bath, these should be reserved for waking you in the morning.

Reading May Help

It's probably better to incorporate these suggestions into your regular pre-bedtime routine; that is, each night take warm bath, listen to the radio or read a little.

You might find reading for 15 or 20 minutes relaxing. But don't expect to read an exciting "blood and thunder" novel and then quickly drift off to peaceful dreams. Stories of violence are apt to excite you and wake you instead of calming your body and mind.

One night, recently, I read a story of a World War II naval skirmish in which the skipper of a destroyer remained on the bridge for something like 48 hours or so. While the action was exciting, the captain's almost utter exhaustion made me feel tired, too. I soon dropped off to sleep.

Regular Routine

These final acts will serve as a signal that your day is through. They will tell you that it is time to go to sleep.

For the last four days we've been talking about how to sleep. Tomorrow we'll discuss how to avoid fatigue.

Pigeons Fail On Trip to Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Young Republicans of Cook County (Chicago), Ill., made certain their greetings to President Eisenhower on his second term reached the White House.

Two carrier pigeons, bearing greetings, were released in Chicago last weekend, but failed to reach their destination here.

However, the GOP group sent to the White House a large scroll signed by more than 500 of its members at their own inaugural ball held in Chicago Saturday.

British Order Hungarian Out

LONDON (AP)—The British government Wednesday ordered a Hungarian military attache, Lt. Col. Bela Nagy, to get out of the country within 24 hours.

An announcement said Nagy's presence "is no longer desired by Her Majesty's government."

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—You can get dizzy these brisk January days just trying to follow President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey when they talk of cutting the budget and reducing taxes on small business.

Last August Eisenhower's special committee for helping small business made 14 recommendations, including tax cuts that would amount to 600 million dollars a year.

During the presidential campaign Eisenhower said, "I shall call for further help to small business with some dozen specific recommendations for action — including special tax measures."

But he was very vague when he sent his economic message to Congress Wednesday, contenting himself with saying any tax cut for small business should "involve only a minimum loss of revenue" to the government.

Last week at a news conference Secretary Humphrey brushed past the Cabinet committee's recommendations for 600 million dollars in tax cuts. He said he opposed any substantial loss in revenue but added he'd be glad to see small business get a cut of 20 to 30 million dollars.

It was over the budget itself that a peculiar fog descended. This past year, as every year, the heads of government agencies worked for months figuring out their spending estimates which would go into Eisenhower's total budget.

They're supposed to cut to the bone. To see that they do, the Budget Bureau goes over their figures, looking for places to use the axe. Humphrey at his news conference praised the agency heads for their zeal. And he said:

"I think the budget as now drawn has been prepared with the very greatest care and I think it is the best that we can possibly do right now, I don't think there is anything in sight that can be done better than is now proposed in this budget. . . ."

Yet a few minutes later he was saying spending must come down — he had said the same thing in a carefully prepared statement at the beginning of the conference — and then volunteered this information:

"I think there are a lot of places in this budget that can be cut." Reporters asked him where. He wouldn't say. And he refused to say where again Wednesday when he appeared before a House Appropriations Committee whose job is to determine how much shall be spent.

This budget of almost 72 billion dollars was the highest Eisenhower had submitted to Congress in his four years and higher than any peacetime budget ever offered by former President Truman. Why was it so high?

Humphrey said it has just been "creeping up on us" because everybody has been looking to the government for more and more.

Wednesday at his own news conference Eisenhower likewise said spending must be kept down. Then, however, unlike Humphrey who said the trouble started with the public which wanted more from the government and went on up to government officials, Eisenhower said:

"As long as the American people demand and, in my opinion deserve, the kind of services that this budget provides, we have got to spend this kind of money." But if Congress can cut the budget, Eisenhower said, it ought to.

That's hardly news, since it's Congress' job. It would seem, from all this, that the White House isn't going to provide leadership in cutting the budget, or fighting for what it asked, and that if small business gets any sizable tax relief it will have to look to Congress, not to the administration.

Ohio Farm Bureau Chieftain Raps State Water Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—John W. Sims, vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau, says the state is trying to handle its natural resource problem in an "unnatural manner."

In a speech for the closing session of the Ohio Federation of Soil Conservation Districts, Sims said:

"In Ohio we don't plant corn in September and expect to harvest a crop. Yet when we plan water programs and laws we evidently believe we can force water to flow according to township, county or state lines.

Sims called for a complete water plan for Ohio which he said is needed to prevent waste and pollution. The plan should set forth principles which are "concise, clear, reasonable and fair," he declared.

Contending that Ohio water laws are inadequate and obsolete, the farm leader said that neither farmers, industry or municipalities are sure of their water rights.

Sims predicted a great increase in irrigated land in Ohio. He foresees as many as two million acres watered eventually, as compared to what he estimated to be about 25,000 acres being irrigated now.

Earl K. Devore of Winchester, Ohio, told delegates that it now looks like 20 states and 14 nations will be represented at the 1957 World Plowing Championships Sept. 17-20 at Peebles (Adams County), Ohio.

The Ohio association is composed of men from 87 counties who give their free time to study best ways to use the soil.

EGYPTIANS CHEER ISRAELI TROOP WITHDRAWAL

AS ISRAELI TROOPS began withdrawing from El Arish, crowds of Egyptian natives on foot and on camel gather around the car of Gen. Samir Tewfik, Governor of Sinai, and Egyptian officers. Jerusalem reports indicate that Israel is willing to provide and pay for all civil and social services for the Gaza Strip under the direction of the United Nations. Under this arrangement, they could withdraw troops.

Eisenhower Inaugural Address Showed Vision

There has been widespread talk about the second inaugural address delivered by President Dwight Eisenhower.

Most of the comment has been highly favorable although there were some who contend that there was not enough in the President's address about our domestic issues; also that the President's words were more directed for world consumption.

Perhaps that is what Eisenhower intended, because at this time the tenseness of many phases of our international relations is one of the big situations which our nation must face today if another World War is to be avoided.

The interpretation which has been given to his remarks, according to some critical listeners, was that it was a plea and evidence of expressed determination for our nation to take on more responsibility and be liberal with our finances in helping to adjust world problems.

Perhaps that also was what the president meant, although few can recall that his words were so bluntly directed on that phase of his speech. We doubt that Eisenhower meant anything more than that this nation should bear its full share of responsibility. Certainly he said what he could to give the people seeking freedom, especially those in Soviet dominated countries, some idea of hope for the future.

As to the President's words on our own land's domestic issues, it would seem reasonable, that he should not devote his inaugural talk to such domestic details which are a matter for local debate and Congressional action. There will be plenty of this in the near future and in this undoubtedly the President will definitely deliver his views.

On the whole, the Eisenhower second inaugural address, indicated that our President is a man of stature. He was convincing to most people and the feeling still exists among a great majority that they may assuredly believe they are safer with this man being our nation's chief executive today, than some others we have had who acted without proper judgement and created worse troubles than we have today.

For a Husband, Go to Dixie

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That ladies seeking a husband may find the best hunting in the United States in the South.

Census figures show, five of six women of marriageable age already have landed a man there, but one of every four men is still single. Maybe it's because he takes snuff.

That soap is believed to have first come into limited use about the time of Christ. Infant mortality today is lowest in countries having the largest per capita use of soap.

That the $20 bill is the only one that has a picture of the White House on it. It also bears the portrait of Andy Jackson, a Democratic President, but Democrats complain only Republicans can afford to see it.

That the mountain goat is perhaps the only horned mammal that regularly sits on its haunches. This item, I know, will bring me 816 letters from secretaries saying, "How about the old goat I work for? He does nothing but sit on his haunches, and if he doesn't have horns, he ought to!"

That Britain's war with France in 1695 was partly paid for by a tax on bachelors. Is that any odder than modern wars in which even the fighting soldier is taxed?

That an Iowa farmer named Don Radda grew a record corn stalk—31 feet 3 inches . . . or nearly twice the height of the average Texan.

That Rosalind Russell, chosen one of the world's best-dressed women, has 18 changes of costume as "Aunt Mame" in the Broadway show. "That beats me by three," says my wife. "I've had 15 changes in the 19 years since I married you for a steady living."

That Col. Jim Bowie, who invented a new outdoor carving knife and died in the Alamo, was the dandy of the frontier. In his wardrobe were 40 shirts, 22 morning coats, 6 evening jackets, 4 capes, a silk top hat, and 3 buckskin shirts. On hunting trips he had all 3 buckskin shirts washed daily.

That the one question most often asked me by strange women at parties is, "Why doesn't the baseball umpire hold up his left hand to indicate a ball, just as he does his right hand to call a strike?" The only reason I can think of is that umpires probably need to keep the fingers of one hand free to count with.

Who's Running Hawaii?

By George Sokolsky

Sometime ago, I wrote a piece on the danger to Hawaiian statehood if Harry Bridges continued to control those outposts of American defenses.

I received many letters complaining that I was unfair to the Hawaiians, to Americans who lived there, to newspapers and radio stations, etc., etc.

So I have read carefully the transcript of the hearings in Honolulu of the Senate Subcommittee on Internal Security. This committee went out to Honolulu to take testimony on the spot and was greeted by a strike, the object of which was to show that Harry Bridges is more powerful than a Senate committee.

It is an interesting record, with the usual number of Fifth Amendment witnesses and the usual attacks on the good will and fairness of the committee. I found very significant the testimony of Benjamin Franklin Dillingham, who was born in Honolulu and has lived there all his life and has held public office in the territory as well as engaging in private business.

Dillingham made the point:

". . .We depend upon shipping for virtually all our basic needs of life here. Outside of air mail and a few commodities that can be brought in by air, we have no trucking service, we have no railroads service to fall back on, to relate us, to tie us to other communities of the United States, we are depended upon ships. So when the shipping is cut off, we're not only denied access to the mainland for the sale of our products we produce here, and depend upon for a livelihood, but we are denied an opportunity to receive our food, our clothing, our necessary supplies."

Then he added:

"And when you realize, and as I say, except for the military, which is very substantial to be sure, but it is not by any means our staff of life, you might say, when you realize that the shipping and the pineapple and the sugar industries are subject to the whim of one man, you will understand the position this community is in every day, every week, every month of every year."

It is a frightening picture if true and as one reads the testimony it is obvious that Dillingham's statement must be true, particularly as one reads the evidence of union lawyers who seem to be among the most obstreperous witnesses ever to have appeared before any congressional committee. It must have been a trying experience for all parties concerned, but the over-all picture is one of an insolent acceptance of the authority of a feared master.

The question that naturally arises here is whether the control of the principal unions of Hawaii by Harry Bridges is in the best interests of the United States. The volume of testimony taken by the Internal Security Subcommittee is large and it leads to the conclusion that something has gone wrong on those beautiful islands that can no longer be covered up.

If the people of Hawaii have no way of getting rid of Bridges and his particular form of unionism, then they cannot expect a favorable response from Congress of their desire for statehood. The argument that conditions are no worse there than on the American mainland does not hold.

It is Hawaii that seeks statehood. It cannot be ignored that even public officials went to a testimonial dinner in honor of a man convicted under the Smith Act whose case is on appeal. The testimony is not clear as to how many went but it looked as though there was approval of Jack Hall's general position and while it is true that until a man has had all the benefits of due process up to the Supreme Court of the United States, there is the possibility that he might be regarded as not yet convicted, it is also true that the United States is in a precarious position, requiring a budget 71 billion dollars a preponderant part of which goes for which goes for the national defense. And that influences our thinking on many subjects.

Those Americans who prefer the enemy and support his cause cannot expect much friendship or enthusiasm from the Americans who anticipate that their young sons may be called to war because of the implacable enmity of Soviet Russia for the United States. Preparedness and taxes affect us all emotionally.

CD Phone Toll Mystery Solved

EAST LIVERPOOL (AP)—At the edge of the village of Salineville there is a post of the Civilian Defense Ground Observer Corps. And it seemed odd that telephone tolls were being listed from the Salineville post to Bergholz, in the Jefferson County.

Cleo Mellott, police chief in Salineville, began making an investigation. It developed that a 16-year-old boy had been slipping into the post to make calls to a girl friend in Bergholz.

The chief collected $6.50 from the boy's parents to take care of the unofficial calls.

Pravda Claims U. S. Plans War

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party has accused the United States of establishing bases for atomic-armed guided missiles around the perimeter of the Soviet Union. Pravda said this raised the threat of a great new war.

The organ of the Soviet party said reports in the U. S. press prove the United States is planning to equip its "bases" in Turkey, Iran, Japan, Okinawa, Alaska and Western Europe with guided missiles and atomic shells.

Diet and Health

Some Tricks Help You Get to Sleep

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Do you have a difficult time getting to sleep? Well, maybe these suggestions will help speed you off to slumber.

Warm baths or showers usually are helpful, since they soothe you and calm your nerves. But don't rush. Take a leisurely bath.

Avoid cold baths or showers at night. Cold water is invigorating It's fine for waking you in the morning, but it might hamper your sleep at night.

Soft Music

Listening to soft music on your radio or phonograph might help you get to sleep. Clock radios which switch off by themselves are useful—providing you don't lie awake listening for them to click off.

Dr. Henry Dantzig, author of "Tailor Your Bedtime" in "Blue Print for Health," advises music from woodwind and string instruments as especially relaxing.

Don't, he cautions, try to go to sleep listening to loud, fast brassy music or martial airs. Like a cold shower or bath, these should be reserved for waking you in the morning.

Reading May Help

It's probably better to incorporate these suggestions into your regular pre - bedtime routine; that is, each night take warm bath, listen to the radio or read a little.

You might find reading for 15 or 20 minutes relaxing. But don't expect to read an exciting "blood and thunder" novel and then quickly drift off to peaceful dreams. Stories of violence are apt to excite you and wake you instead of calming your body and mind.

One night, recently, I read a story of a World War II naval skirmish in which the skipper of a destroyer remained on the bridge for something like 48 hours or so. While the action was exciting, the captain's almost utter exhaustion made me feel tired, too. I soon dropped off to sleep.

Regular Routine

These final acts will serve as a signal that your day is through. They will tell you that it is time to go to sleep.

For the last four days we've been talking about how to sleep. Tomorrow we'll discuss how to avoid fatigue.

Pigeons Fail On Trip to Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young Republicans of Cook County (Chicago), Ill., made certain their greetings to President Eisenhower on his second term reached the White House.

Two carrier pigeons, bearing greetings, were released in Chicago last weekend, but failed to reach their destination here.

However, the GOP group sent to the White House a large scroll signed by more than 500 of its members at their own inaugural ball held in Chicago Saturday.

British Order Hungarian Out

LONDON (AP) — The British government Wednesday ordered a Hungarian military attache, Lt. Col. Bela Nagy, to get out of the country within 24 hours.

An announcement said Nagy's presence "is no longer desired by Her Majesty's government."

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—You can get dizzy these brisk January days just trying to follow President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey when they talk of cutting the budget and reducing taxes on small business.

Last August Eisenhower's special committee for helping small business made 14 recommendations, including tax cuts that would amount to 600 million dollars a year.

During the presidential campaign Eisenhower said, "I shall call for further help to small business with some dozen specific recommendations for action — including special tax measures."

But he was very vague when he sent his economic message to Congress Wednesday, contenting himself with saying any tax cut for small business should "involve only a minimum loss of revenue" to the government.

Last week at a news conference Secretary Humphrey brushed past the Cabinet committee's recommendations for 600 million dollars in tax cuts. He said he opposed any substantial loss in revenue but added he'd be glad to see small business get a cut of 20 to 30 million dollars.

It was over the budget itself that a peculiar fog descended. This past year, as every year, the heads of government agencies worked for months figuring out their spending estimates which would go into Eisenhower's total budget.

They're supposed to cut to the bone. To see that they do, the Budget Bureau goes over their figures, looking for places to use the axe. Humphrey at his news conference praised the agency heads for their zeal. And he said:

"I think the budget as now drawn has been prepared with the very greatest care and I think it is the best that we can possibly do right now. I don't think there is anything in sight that can be done better than is now proposed in this budget. . . ."

Yet a few minutes later he was saying spending must come down — he had said the same thing in a carefully prepared statement at the beginning of the conference — and then volunteered this information:

"I think there are a lot of places in this budget that can be cut." Reporters asked him where. He wouldn't say. And he refused to say where again Wednesday when he appeared before a House Appropriations Committee whose job is to determine how much shall be spent.

This budget of almost 72 billion dollars was the highest Eisenhower had submitted to Congress in his four years and higher than any peacetime budget ever offered by former President Truman. Why was it so high?

Humphrey said it has just been "creeping up on us" because everybody has been looking to the government for more and more.

Wednesday at his own news conference Eisenhower likewise said spending must be kept down. Then, however, unlike Humphrey who said the trouble started with the public which wanted more from the government and went on up to government officials, Eisenhower said:

"As long as the American people demand and, in my opinion deserve, the kind of services that this budget provides, we have got to spend this kind of money." But if Congress can cut the budget, Eisenhower said, it ought to.

That's hardly news, since it's Congress' job. It would seem, from all this, that the White House isn't going to provide leadership in cutting the budget, or fighting for what it asked, and that if small business gets any sizable tax relief it will have to look to Congress, not to the administration.

Proposed U. S. Mid-East 'Doctrine' Has Whole World Awaiting Outcome

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
By Central Press Ass'n.

WASHINGTON—There is the tension and suspense here of a waiting room outside the maternity ward of a hospital as United States foreign policy in the Middle East apparently is being born and already is named in some quarters, "the Eisenhower Doctrine."

If indeed a modern descendant of the famous Monroe Doctrine is about to come upon the world, foreign affairs experts are agreed that it could be the most significant diplomatic event in the second half of the Twentieth century.

Much depends, of course, on whether this newcomer is a chip off the old block of the Monroe Doctrine. If this new doctrine does for the Middle East what the famous edict of Dec. 2, 1823, did for the Western Hemisphere, it is new, dramatic evidence of how rapidly the world is shrinking, and how far Uncle Sam must stretch his arms around the globe.

History is repeating itself dramatically. In the first place, President James Monroe also chose an annual message to Congress to introduce his plan to guarantee the independence of our sister American republics.

THE INTERNATIONAL cast of characters was strikingly similar. Russia had entered "the Holy Alliance," which aimed to put down rebellions, including those which had just occurred in South America.

England's Foreign Minister Canning encouraged the United States to declare the Monroe Doctrine to stop these moves, just as British support appears behind the proposed new step today.

It is the view of international experts here that the United States has never gone so far in the past to ensure regional security as it may go now. On the othe hand, very early in its history the youthful United States, in the administration of Thomas Jefferson, declared far off Tripoli in the Mediterranean within its sphere of interest and put down the Barbary pirates in an action that srprised the world.

By posting "hands-off" on the Middle East, the United States may be assuming the burden of the traditional Western World assignment of blocking what Peter the Great described as "Holy Russia's historic mission" to dominate the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles. France and England fought Russia in the Crimea on account of it.

THE MONROE Doctrine is viewed as a perfect pattern because the Unied States pledged not to interfere with internal affairs of the smaller nations, but only to see that they were left alone.

The "Eisenhower Doctrine," however, may encounter stormy days ahead during its infancy, adolescence and maturity. After all, the Monroe Doctrine can stir up tempests today, nearly a century and a half old.

It had to be covered specially in the Convenant of the old League of Nations and Article 51 of the United Nations charter. It has become a cornerstone of Uncle Sam's entire foreign policy.

England fostered the Monroe Doctrine, but the United States invoked it against the British when they interfered with Texas annexation. In 1895, Christmas was darkened by the threat of war as the United States forced arbitration of a boundary dispute between Venezuela and British Guiana.

IT HAS BEEN a principle held above politics that if the Monroe Doctrine is to exist, the United States must be willing to risk even war to support it. Consequently it has been trying on the nerves at times, but war never actually has ensued.

Another close brush with war occurred when France's Napoleon III took advantage of American preoccupation with its War Between the States to invest Mexico with a puppet regime.

As soon as the North won, however, Gen. Phil Sheridan took 50,000 seasoned troops to the Mexican border, and the French abandoned the puppet Maximilian, to be seized and executed by Mexican patriots.

In 1902, the United States though the collective effort of several European powers in bombarding Venezuelan ports for nonpayment of debts was a little strenuous, and threatened to send Adm. George Dewey with the American fleet to scare them off. The Doctrine held again.

AS TODAY, a canal—then the Panama Canal—put a strain on it when England had treaties with Nicaragua, and the United States insisted on its perogatives under the Doctrine to go ahead, except that the canal should be operated as an open international facility.

The nations for which the Doctrine was developed occasionally have had their problems, too, with what their politicians sometimes call "the Colossus of the North."

Although originally intended only to fend off outside influences, the Monroe Doctrine received what diplomats now call "the Roosevelt (T. R., that is) Corollary," when the United States exercised the "police power" to prevent disturbances in Latin America.

It is expected that Middle East nations may ask if there is any "corollary" to the "Eisenhower Doctrine," as discussions progress.

Oh, the road ahead is rocky, official Washington admits, but after many years under the Monroe Doctrine the concensus is that it was worth it. The big question is whether years hence the same will be said of the new doctrine, if it comes to fruition.

Detroit Police Renew Censorship

DETROIT (AP) —Police censors have banned another paperback novel here and Police Commissioner Edward Piggins has invited a court test of his book banning powers.

The censor bureau ruled from Detroit bookstand the paperbound edition of "Your Own Beloved Sons," a novel of the Korean War by Thomas Anderson. No action was taken against the clothbound edition.

Meanwhile Piggins told a City Council meeting that opponents of his ban against the novel "Ten North Frederick" as obscene, should take it to court.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The State Department has rallied to the defense of the American ambassador abroad.

It rejected what it said are popular notions that he is "a diplomatic fashion plate" or "a man sent abroad to lie for his country."

Instead, it pictured him as an extremely hard working individual "on duty day and night" with responsibilities for maintaining peaceful relations in the world, ith extensive administrative duties and often with the most difficult of conditions.

Daytonian Seeks Return of Whisky

His case (the legal kind) has gone to the Ohio Supreme Court.

He has already tried unsuccessfully to have the Dayton Municipal Court and the Montgomery Appellate Court order police to return several cases of whisky and beer they confiscated in a raid about five years ago.

He is now asking the supreme court to overrule the lower courts.

Value of the beverages has not been estimated.

Getting into College Poses Tough Problems

By DR. DOROTHY WHIPPLE
(By The Associated Press)

Once your son or daughter has narrowed his choice of colleges down to about half a dozen he must fill out an application blank for each college.

Many of the big-name colleges today are crowded. Some of them get from five to 10 applications for every opening they have. This does not mean, however, that only the gtnius gets accepted. But in addition to the famous colleges there are many good somewhat less well-known institutions that even have trouble filling their classes.

1. Academic standing in his class.
2. Extra-curricular activities.
3. Recommendation from his high school.
4. Results of the College Entrance Examination.

Academic standing is important. The student in the upper 10 per cent of his high school class will have no trouble; students in the upper 25 per cent probably will be accepted in the big-name schools.

BELOW this it's not too likely a student will be accepted in the popular crowded schools. It would be wide for a student whose grades are not too good to apply to several of the lesser known colleges. There is no harm, of course, in his applying to a big-name school, too. Grades are not all the colleges pay attention to; the look not only at academic records. They want you people who are interested in out-of-class activities.

Work on the school paper, in the dramatic club, in sports, in any of the many extra-activities of the high school help turn young people into good college material.

Recommendation from the high school principal is given heavy weight by most colleges. This recommendation covers not only the grades the student received in high school seniors to apply to more than one college without taking more than one set of entrance examinations. The scores of the CEEB tests are submitted by the Board to as many colleges as the student wishes to apply to.

LAST are the results of the examinations given by the College Entrance Examination Board.

This board offers standardized tests to make it possible for high school seniors to apply to more tha one cillege without taking more than one set of entrance examinations. The scores of the CEEB tests are submitted by the Board to as many colleges as the student wishes to apply to.

Some colleges require these tests, but all colleges consider them. The CEEB tests are given all over the world on five specified days during the year.

A small fee is charged. There are two tests.

The Scholastic Aptitude test is a combination of a general information exam and an intelligence test. It is a three-hour morning exam.

The second is the Achievement tests.

These are three-one-hour exams given in the afternoon. The student has a choice of which subjects he wishes to be examined in.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 17, and I like a doctor—he is about 28—whom I have known for about three months, since he took care of me in the hospital.

I have been going up to the hospital whenever I could, once or twice a week, and I saw him each time—quite by accident, though. I made a pair of cuff links and wrote him a letter of appreciation of his wonderful help to me; and he liked the letter very much, and the cuff links too.

He sat and talked with me for about an hour, then asked if he might kiss me, and I said yes. It was most profound. You would think he was in love with me; and I knew then that I had a great deal of feeling for him. But I don't know how to express it rightly.

He said he liked me very much, and if I were "a little older" he would like to take me out. He spoke of my being "too young," as if he might be afraid I would think he was too forward; or that I might think he was too old for me; or as if he didn't want me to think he is evasive, or trying to take advantage of me.

I don't know if I should suggest that we go out or not. He may think I wouldn't enjoy being his date; but I very much want to be. I don't know if I should tell him how I feel.

I think I am beginning to fall in love with him. My parents like him very much; that is, my father and aunt. My mother died a few months ago.

K. L.

DEAR K. L.: You had better back out of this day dream without delay. There is nothing in it for you, except frustration, disappointment, heartache, and rejection—if you continue to pursue it.

In short, it isn't a healthy "love"-interest. And the doctor's behavior isn't wholesome either. He knows that. He knows that you are chasing him, wearing your heart on your sleeve; and he isn't exactly discouraging it. But at the same time, he isn't reacting in an honorable manner.

Actually he is taking advantage of you to a certain extent, as much as he dares—or thinks he can risk, without courting a bad name for himself ethically, in relation to a susceptible minor-age patient.

In gracefully promoting a "profound" kiss, for example, that became for you a soul-stirring experience, yet which he was able to pass off casually, with pleasantries about liking you, he was exploiting your adolescent naivete in a rather selfish experimental way.

You are piqued and puzzled by his alleged belief that you are "too young"—too young for what, you ask in effect. Well, if you are 17 and he is about 28, that age difference isn't an insuperable obstacle to either true friendship or true love.

You are neither too young to be a friendly enjoyable date, if mutual congeniality exists; nor even too young to be his best girl, if he happened to like and respect and admire you—as a type he'd be proud to present to family and friends.

However, you are too young from the legal view to be treated as a trollop by the adult-age male who might have only sex adventure (not romance) in mind—since it were a statutory offense to lead a minor astray, even if she provides the provocation.

Thus possibly the doctor regards your truth, and your pursuit of him, as a danger of sorts to his morale and professional prestige. Maybe he fears his own weakness in the face of persistent temptation; and warns you off as "too young"—in the sense of being too young (he thinks) to recognize the nature of the forces you are fumbling with.

My advice is, drop the idea that he has a place in your life. Come back down to earth; forget the hospital interlude, and apply yourself to making something worthwhile of plain old every day reality.

M. H.

Getting into College Poses Tough Problems

By DR. DOROTHY WHIPPLE
(By The Associated Press)

Once your son or daughter has narrowed his choice of colleges down to about half a dozen he must fill out an application blank for each college.

Many of the big-name colleges today are crowded. Some of them get from five to 10 applications for every opening they have. This does not mean, however, that only the gtnius gets accepted. But in addition to the famous colleges there are many good somewhat less well-known institutions that even have trouble filling their classes.

1. Academic standing in his class.

2. Extra-curricular activities.

3. Recommendation from his high school.

4. Results of the College Entrance Examination.

Academic standing is important. The student in the upper 10 per cent of his high school class will have no trouble; students in the upper 25 per cent probably will be accepted in the big-name schools.

BELOW this it's not too likely a student will be accepted in the popular crowded schools. It would be wide for a student whose grades are not too good to apply to several of the lesser known colleges. There is no harm, of course, in his applying to a big-name school, too. Grades are not all the colleges pay attention to; the look not only at academic records. They want you people who are interested in out-of-class activities.

Work on the school paper, in the dramatic club, in sports, in any of the many extra-activities of the high school help turn young people into good college material.

Recommendation from the high school principal is given heavy weight by most colleges. This recommendation covers not only the grades the student received in high school seniors to apply to more than one college without taking more than one set of entrance examinations. The scores of the CEEB tests are submitted by the Board to as many colleges as the student wishes to apply to.

This board offers standardized tests to make it possible for high school seniors to apply to more tha one college without taking more than one set of entrance examinations. The scores of the CEEB tests are submitted by the Board to as many colleges as the student wishes to apply to.

Some colleges require these tests, but all colleges consider them. The CEEB tests are given all over the world on five specified days during the year.

A small fee is charged. There are two tests.

The Scholastic Aptitude test is a combination of a general information exam and an intelligence test. It is a three-hour morning exam.

The second is the Achievement tests.

These are three-one-hour exams given in the afternoon. The student has a choice of which subjects he wishes to be examined in.

Unity Urged Upon Negro Organization

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jackie Robinson, former baseball star with the Brooklyn Dodgers, urged the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to work with unity and determination, in a speech here Tuesday night.

Robinson, who recently retired from baseball, is national chairman of a drive to raise a million dollars for a "Fighting Fund for Freedom" of the NAACP. He is on a nationwide tour in the interest of the drive.

A CHAMPION MAKES HIS BOW

MARGE AND GOWER CHAMPION, film and stage dancing team, admire the newest Champion in the family, their two-month-old son, Gregg. He was born at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital in Hollywood, Calif. This is his first appearance before the camera.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 17, and I like a doctor—he is about 28—whom I have known for about three months, since he took care of me in the hospital.

I have been going up to the hospital whenever I could, once or twice a week, and I saw him each time—quite by accident, though. I made a pair of cuff links and wrote him a letter of appreciation of his wonderful help to me; and he liked the letter very much, and the cuff links too.

He sat and talked with me for about an hour, then asked if he might kiss me, and I said yes. It was most profound. You would think he was in love with me; and I knew then that I had a great deal of feeling for him. But I don't know how to express it rightly.

He said he liked me very much, and if I were "a little older" he would like to take me out. He spoke of my being "too young," as if he might be afraid I would think he was too forward; or that I might think he was too old for me; or as if he didn't want me to think he is evasive, or trying to take advantage of me.

I don't know if I should suggest that we go out or not. He may think I wouldn't enjoy being his date; but I very much want to be. I don't know if I should tell him how I feel.

I think I am beginning to fall in love with him. My parents like him very much; that is, my father and aunt. My mother died a few months ago.

K. L.

DEAR K. L.: You had better back out of this day dream without delay. There is nothing in it for you, except frustration, disappointment, heartache, and rejection—if you continue to pursue it.

In short, it isn't a healthy "love"-interest. And the doctor's behavior isn't wholesome either. He knows that. He knows that you are chasing him, wearing your heart on your sleeve; and he isn't exactly discouraging it. But at the same time, he isn't reacting in an honorable manner.

Actually he is taking advantage of you to a certain extent, as much as he dares—or thinks he can risk, without courting a bad name for himself ethically, in relation to a susceptible minor-age patient.

In gracefully promoting a "profound" kiss, for example, that became for you a soul-stirring experience, yet which he was able to pass off casually, with pleasantries about liking you, he was exploiting your adolescent naivete in a rather selfish experimental way.

You are piqued and puzzled by his alleged belief that you are "too young"—too young for what, you ask in effect. Well, if you are 17 and he is about 28, that age difference isn't an insuperable obstacle to either true friendship or true love.

You are neither too young to be a friendly enjoyable date, if mutual congeniality exists; nor even too young to be his best girl, if he happened to like and respect and admire you—as a type he'd be proud to present to family and friends.

However, you are too young from the legal view to be treated as a trollop by the adult-age male who might have only sex adventure (not romance) in mind—since it were a statutory offense to lead a minor astray, even if she provides the provocation.

Thus possibly the doctor regards your truth, and your pursuit of him, as a danger of sorts to his morale and professional prestige. Maybe he fears his own weakness in the face of persistent temptation; and warns you off as "too young"—in the sense of being too young (he thinks) to recognize the nature of the forces you are fumbling with.

My advice is, drop the idea that he has a place in your life. Come back down to earth; forget the hospital interlude, and apply yourself to making something worthwhile of plain old every day reality.

Indians' $118 Million Court Fight Against U.S. Near Climax

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(Central Press Association)

WASHINGTON—One of the most unusual and fabulous court cases in American history is approaching a climax as an aged man nears completion of a 34-year-old battle to collect $118 million from the government.

His clients are 35,000 Sioux Indians who are striving to gain peacefully what Sitting Bull was unable to achieve on the battlefield.

For when Gen. George Armstrong Custer discovered gold in the Black Hills of South Dakota and white men poured in to stake their claims, the Sioux Indians waged an unsuccessful fight to retain their land.

Custer and his men lost their lives at the Battle of Little Big Horn, and Congress took away the gold-rich territory from the Indians. The Sioux maintain that in doing so the government violated an 1868 treaty.

The Sioux have been trying to collect ever since. Since the tremendously-rich Homestead gold mine was discovered in their territory, they do not consider their claim excessive.

IT WAS NOT until 1920 that Congress granted the Sioux Indians the right to sue for $118 million, believed to be the largest claim ever filed against the government. The tribe's first attorney was Charles Evans Hughes.

However, Hughes had to withdraw from the case the following year when he was appointed secretary of state and the Indians selected Ralph Hoyt Case. They had known his sheriff-father years before as an honorable and trusted man.

Case now is 77. He is old and ill, but his determination to carry the claim through to a conclusion—in the Supreme court—is as fixed as that of the indominatable Indians who hired him 34 years ago.

"Justice, decency and history are all on our side," he commented. "The Sioux are the toughest and most stiff-necked tribe that the United States ever encountered and when they've been wronged they'll never surrender until the last brave is dead."

Five of the six Indian leaders who selected Case are dead. So are three government attorneys who devoted almost their entire careers to the claim before it even reached its final appeal.

THE SIOUX so far have met only with adverse decisions. The first came in 1937, when the court of claims ruled that it lacked jurisdiction.

It cost the government $107,000 to present its argument to the court, which it did in a 4,385-page brief. Case's brief consisted of 400 pages and was published as a book.

A group of Ogalala Sioux in Washington to discuss their suit with Rep. E. Y. Berry (R), South Dakota. That's Chief Ben American Horse seated at table. Representative Berry, with war bonnet, stands behind him.

However, Case refused to give up. Nine years after the court's decision, Congress passed the Indians Claims Commission Act. The Sioux Indians then pressed their claim before the Indian Claims commission, but it ruled against them.

The court of appeals upheld the ruling and Case has appealed to the Supreme Court. He said he is sure to ultimate victory.

Both courts held that Congress had the right to abrogate the 1868 treaty with the Sioux Indians. They stated further that the Sioux Indians had received $57 million in benefits which they held was sufficient to compensate for the more than seven million acres taken from the Sioux in 1877.

What will Case receive upon the final conclusion of the lengthy court battle? What will be his fee?

Nothing, unless he wins.

Criminal Type Described in Marietta Study

MARIETTA, (AP) — A Marietta College professor, completing a study of Midwest criminals, claims the study offers proof that there is a "criminal type".

Dr. Max N. Burchard, 31-year-old sociology professor, said the results of a series of tests have been compiled to form a classification he terms the "pro-habitual convict" or the "criminal type."

Here are some other characteristics of the "criminal type." according to Dr. Burchard's survey:

The criminal type does not plan his crimes effectively, is easily apprehended, is convicted on a guilty plea, earns one or more paroles, is easily controlled while in prison, and does not go to prison school.

He has no feeling of responsibility, seems to feel more secure behind bars, is a lonely, derelict type, is as inept at criminal actions as he is in everyday life and has no desire to improve his station.

"The description provided by these characteristics," Dr. Burchard concludes, "should be quite helpful in the control and prediction of the behavior of such individuals."

When you sign a letter "sincerely" you are really writing the Latin words meaning "without wax." In brief, you swear to the honesty of what you have written in the letter.

Women's Spring Fashions Slated To Stress 'Comfort'

NEW YORK (AP) -- Weary members of the American fashion press wound up a strenuous week of spring style previews today and prepared to depart with good tidings for the folks back home.

You can relax and be comfortable in the new spring clothes. You won't have to go on a starvation diet or cinch yourself into a strangling waist-nipper to get into your new spring suit. The smartest way to look in 1957 is at ease.

After covering close to 50 fashion showings in five days, the 250 visiting editors were groggy but still on their feet and still enthusiastic. They were even able to applaud the final showings of the hectic week: Nettie Rosenstein's softly feminine little black dresses and smooth suits; William Fox's distinguished costumes; Tina Lesser's casual way with exotic fabrics; Anthony Blotta's precision tailored suits; Ben Reig's parade of expensive dresses; Harvey Berin's collection of exquisitely detailed costumes.

These are the major impressions of the new fashions the editors will carry home with them:

Spring suits are slender in line, easy in fit, neither exaggerated nor tight, always soft and feminine. Jackets are brief, ranging from bolero to hipbone length, skirts are slim but eased for comfort, fabrics are featherweight and handsome.

Daytime dresses also are slender in line, handsome in fabric, shaped to follow the lines of the body, often frosted with crisp, lacy lingerie touches

There is no change in skirt lengths except for dinner and evening wear, when ankle and floor-length gowns are preferred.

High in Men's Shoe Styles: The 'My Fair Lady' Look

(By The Associated Press)

The next time your husband or nearest male critic makes fun of your silly shoes, you might tell him that the world's biggest shoe manufacturer says men soon will be wearing buckled shoes, and may even rival women in foot fashions.

The man responsible for this prediction is Walter Maxey Jarman, a Baptist deacon's son from Tennessee, who has made a small Nashville shoe factory into a giant corporation which now turns out most of the country's shoes in all price brackets.

Jarman, a slow-spoken southerner who commutes between New York and Nashville, also is the man who bought Tiffany's.

Over a luncheon table the other day Jarman expounded his ideas on diamonds and shoes.

"We just sort of picked up Tiffany's in a package deal," he drawled. "It came along with a string of women's specialty shops. Interesting place. Never specialized much in diamonds before, but I'm learning quite a bit about them. Funny thing, the women in the family seem to take more interest in the jewelry business than the shoe business."

The "package deal" took place when Jarman's company, General Shoe Corp. recently bought the Hoving Corp., which includes Bonwit-Teller and Tiffany's in New York and six other women's specialty shops in other parts of the country.

Jarman's family consists of a wife, one son in the navy, one married daughter and one daughter still in college. He spends Monday to Thursday every week in New York, but goes home to Nashville every weekend.

About men's shoe fashions of today and tomorrow —

"Well you can laugh if you want, but the hottest thing in men's shoe styles right now is the 'my fair lady' look. David Evins designed a line of men's shoes all in this general feeling, with longer, more pointed toes. One of them is a slipon style called 'Lancia.'

"Wouldn't surprise me a bit to see men wearing buckles on their shoes soon. Men like fashion, too, though it takes them longer to admit it. But our founding fathers wore buckled shoes, and nobody could call them sissies."

Ohio Turnpike Said 'World's Safest'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Chairman James Shocknessy of the Ohio Turnpike Commission is hailing the turnpike as the world's safest highway.

He cited figures showing only 1.91 fatalities for each 100 million vehicle miles on the pike last year compared with 6.4 fatalities per 100 million miles nationally in 1955, the last year for which records are available. The Ohio highway rate, outside municipalities, in 1955 was 9.4 fatal accidents per 100 million miles.

Jackson Hole, Wyoming was once a perfect hide-out for outlaws. But, now it is peopled mostly by movie actors filming stories about the outlaws who have fled to safer regions.

Hungary Convicts 3 More in Revolt

BUDAPEST (AP) — Radio Budapest says three more Hungarians have been sentenced to death for inciting strikes and urging other resistance to the regime of Communist Premier Kadar.

This brought to at least 28 the number of death sentences announced publicly since the revolution was put down. Eleven executions have been announced.

Big Cities Planning Columbus Parley

COLUMBUS (AP)—Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner will be host Feb. 8 to a group of big city officials who think the state and federal governments should help pay engineering costs of expressway projects in Ohio.

Under the present formula, individual cities must pay all of the engineering or planning costs of such programs. For the construction itself, the city and state each pay five per cent and the federal government pays 90 per cent. Big cities seek a 90-5-5 sharing of the enginering costs which usually come to between 2 and 3 per cent of the over-all cost.

Parents are cautioned to keep poisonous bottles and boxes out of the reach of children. Accidental poisoning kills more children than polio, diptheria and scarlet fever combined.

Women's Spring Fashions Slated To Stress 'Comfort'

NEW YORK (AP) -- Weary members of the American fashion press wound up a strenuous week of spring style previews today and prepared to depart with good tidings for the folks back home.

You can relax and be comfortable in the new spring clothes. You won't have to go on a starvation diet or cinch yourself into a strangling waist-nipper to get into your new spring suit. The smartest way to look in 1957 is at ease.

After covering close to 50 fashion showings in five days, the 250 visiting editors were groggy but still on their feet and still enthusiastic. They were even able to applaud the final showings of the hectic week: Nettie Rosenstein's softly feminine little black dresses and smooth suits; William Fox's distinguished costumes; Tina Lesser's casual way with exotic fabrics; Anthony Blotta's precision tailored suits; Ben Reig's parade of expensive dresses; Harvey Berin's collection of exquisitely detailed costumes.

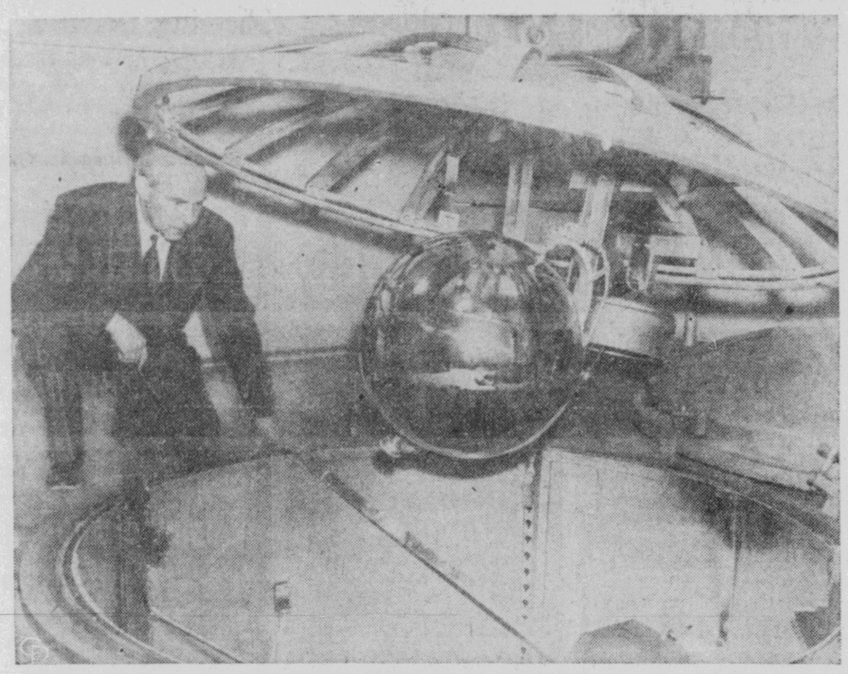
These are the major impressions of the new fashions the editors will carry home with them:

Spring suits are slender in line, easy in fit, neither exaggerated nor tight, always soft and feminine. Jackets are brief, ranging from bolero to hipbone length, skirts are slim but eased for comfort, fabrics are featherweight and handsome.

Daytime dresses also are slender in line, handsome in fabric, shaped to follow the lines of the body, often frosted with crisp, lacy lingerie touches

There is no change in skirt lengths except for dinner and evening wear, when ankle and floor-length gowns are preferred.

INSPECTS COATING TANK FOR EARTH SATELLITE



A FINAL inspection of the vacuum tank in which the earth satellite is placed for special coating to protect its delicate instruments from extreme temperatures is made by Dr. George Hess at the U. S. Army Engineers Research and Development laboratory in Fort Belvoir, Va. The coating also is reflective, to make the satellite more visible. Dr. Hess is a German-born physicist. (International)

High in Men's Shoe Styles: The 'My Fair Lady' Look

(By The Associated Press)

The next time your husband or nearest male critic makes fun of your silly shoes, you might tell him that the world's biggest shoe manufacturer says men soon will be wearing buckled shoes, and may even rival women in foot fashions.

The man responsible for this prediction is Walter Maxey Jarman, a Baptist deacon's son from Tennessee, who has made a small Nashville shoe factory into a giant corporation which now turns out most of the country's shoes in all price brackets.

Jarman, a slow-spoken southerner who commutes between New York and Nashville, also is the man who bought Tiffany's.

Over a luncheon table the other day Jarman expounded his ideas on diamonds and shoes.

"We just sort of picked up Tiffany's in a package deal," he drawled. "It came along with a string of women's specialty shops. Interesting place. Never specialized much in diamonds before, but I'm learning quite a bit about them. Funny thing, the women in the family seem to take more interest in the jewelry business than the shoe business."

The "package deal" took place when Jarman's company, General Shoe Corp. recently bought the Hoving Corp., which includes Bonwit-Teller and Tiffany's in New York and six other women's specialty shops in other parts of the country.

Jarman's family consists of a wife, one son in the navy, one married daughter and one daughter still in college. He spends Monday to Thursday every week in New York, but goes home to Nashville every weekend.

About men's shoe fashions of today and tomorrow —

"Well you can laugh if you want, but the hottest thing in men's shoe styles right now is the 'my fair lady' look. David Evins designed a line of men's shoes all in this general feeling, with longer, more pointed toes. One of them is a slipon style called 'Lancia.'

"Wouldn't surprise me a bit to see men wearing buckles on their shoes soon. Men like fashion, too, though it takes them longer to admit it. But our founding fathers wore buckled shoes, and nobody could call them sissies."

Hungary Convicts 3 More in Revolt

BUDAPEST (AP) — Radio Budapest says three more Hungarians have been sentenced to death for inciting strikes and urging other resistance to the regime of Communist Premier Kadar.

This brought to at least 28 the number of death sentences announced publicly since the revolution was put down. Eleven executions have been announced.

Big Cities Planning Columbus Parley

COLUMBUS (AP)—Columbus Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner will be host Feb. 8 to a group of big city officials who think the state and federal governments should help pay engineering costs of expressway projects in Ohio.

Under the present formula, individual cities must pay all of the engineering or planning costs of such programs. For the construction itself, the city and state each pay five per cent and the federal government pays 90 per cent. Big cities seek a 90-5-5 sharing of the enginering costs which usually come to between 2 and 3 per cent of the over-all cost.

Parents are cautioned to keep poisonous bottles and boxes out of the reach of children. Accidental poisoning kills more children than polio, diptheria and scarlet fever combined.

Ohio Turnpike Said 'World's Safest'

He cited figures showing only 1.91 fatalities for each 100 million vehicle miles on the pike last year compared with 6.4 fatalities per 100 million miles nationally in 1955, the last year for which records are available. The Ohio highway rate, outside municipalities, in 1955 was 9.4 fatal accidents per 100 million miles.

Jackson Hole, Wyoming was once a perfect hide-out for outlaws. But, now it is peopled mostly by movie actors filming stories about the outlaws who have fled to safer regions.

Turncoat GI Turns His Back On Parents after Squabble

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Arlie Pate, an American prisoner who chose three years in Red China at the close of Korean fighting, has turned his back on home again—this time over a row with his father.

The 26-year-old turncoat GI left the family farm near Carbondale late Tuesday vowing he'd "never see the place again."

Sheriff Howard Cheatham had had arrested Pate earlier in the evening on an assault charge filed by his father, Daniel H. Pate, 54.

The elder Pate, both eyes blackened, told Cheatham his son had given him a severe beating but did not disclose the nature of their difference.

At the sheriff's office, Arlie bargained with his father. "If you'll drop the charges, I'll leave here and never see you and the farm again," Cheatham quoted him as saying.

The father agreed. Pate returned to the farm and he and Donald packed a bag. They hiked to Murphysboro and there hailed cab driver H. T. WRight who drove them to St. Louis. Wright said his fare for the 80-mile trip was $32.

Pate was one of 21 American prisoners who originally refused repatriation when peace came to Korea in 1953.

He got homesick last fall and the Red Chinese allowed him to leave. He negotiated a $636 loan from the U. S. State Department and made the trip home by plane, arriving at the family farm Dec. 6.

Probably his only satisfactory answer to why he returned came when he hugged his mother and told newsmen: "This is the reason."

About his three years with the Reds, he commented only that he'd been "curious."

The Pate farm is a hilly 78-acres. Only about half is open to cultivation. Arlie's ailing father worked the place last year behind a team of 20-year-old horses.

The family had visions during that long night waiting for Arlie's arrival. The farm mortgage would be paid off in May. "After that," the father predicted, "me and the boys are going to so dome fixing up."

But the only progress reports available on Arlie following his return came from county law officers summoned to settle barroom disputes in which he was involved.

Union Twp. Zoning Board Report Explains Policies

The Union Township Zoning Board of Appeals has followed a policy of leniency throughout its first year of existence in an effort to educate residents of the area in the new regulations and acquaint them with procedures.

This was emphasized in the board's first annual report. Although it was more in the nature of an informal statement and summary of its activities, the board's report points out that its purpose has been to impress the people with the objectives of the zoning code they approved by popular vote.

The report said the board members agreed that the year's education should be sufficient and that, from now on, no building should be started before the permit is in their hands. Farm homes and buildings, it pointed out, do not come under the zoning regulations.

THE PURPOSE of the zoning code, it was explained, is primarily for orderly planning for long range development by setting aside certain zones, or areas, for industry and others for residential and farming.

A basic zoning map was drawn up first by the elected commission. Any changes from "conforming" to "non - conforming" —that is, from residential to industrial, for example, must be approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

In some of the "conforming"—or residential zones—on the basic zoning map, there were established businesses. The board has emphasized several times that there is no disposition to force these out; however, it also has pointed out, that the owners of such non-conforming properties must apply for re-zoning for these particular areas. This procedure has been described by the board as merely routine, but it must be done within the year. There is a nominal fee for this.

THE BOARD'S statement said that owners of property that has been re - zoned from conforming to non-conforming, or visa versa, are expected to get their new "certificates of occupancy" within the allotted time. The county prosecutor and sheriff are the enforcing agencies for the zoning code.

Two non-conforming areas (in which businesses were established) remain to be re-zoned, the board's report said and added that "unless they are re-zoned during the year, they will be returned to the residential (conforming) area and cease to operate.

The Zoning Board of Appeals, the report said, was intended to be self-supporting and has "worked that way during the past year." Permits issued last year had an estimated value of $591,000 for housing and industry combined. Approval was given 21 permits to re-zone in the township. Building and re-zoning permits issued amounted to $664,000, the board estimated in its report.

Board expenses were $91 for supplies and advertising and $476 for secretarial work.

The report was compiled by Osman King, who was reappointed secretary for another year at the board's last meeting. Members of the board are Frank Dill, chairman for the coming year; Carl Wilt, now vice-chairman after serving the first year as chairman; Franke Weade, Glenn Heistand and Joe White.

County Police Seek Autoist With 'Arsenal'

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Police in three counties today searched for a man who fled from a state highway patrolman trying to make a routine arrest. The man's car contained a small arsenal.

A second man, identified by patrolmen as Harvey R. Chrysler, 44, of Columbus, was captured shortly after he ran from the car. Chrysler told the patrol he was hitchhiking and did not know the name of the man with whom he was riding.

Patrolman Robert E. Klein, who stopped the car for speeding, said it contained two automatic pistols, an army carbine and a blackjack.

The patrol said the car had been stolen from a Mansfield man Nov. 1 and had license plates issued to a Robert Young of Lima, who reported the plates lost.

Klein said that when he signaled the car to pull over, its two occupants jumped out and fled. Chrysler was the only one he could catch, the patrolman said.

The incident happened Tuesday night on U. S. 23 about five miles south of here. Since then, roadblocks were set up in Ross, Scioto and Pike counties in an effort to apprehend Chrysler's companion.

18.17 miles per gallon on North America's toughest truck run!
That's the gas mileage reported by the Cameo Carrier after covering the entire length of the Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! All six new Task-Force trucks that made the run turned in top scores for performance and economy!
Supervised and certified by the AAA.

New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks

Six heavily loaded Chevy trucks ran all the way up the rugged Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! That's cutting more than a full day off the normal running time! They ran right around the clock, stopping only to refuel.

But the important fact about this run was that it proved new Chevy trucks through and through. The Alcan Highway is a supreme test of every truck component. Engines had to prove their power up high-climbing grades and through washouts. Frames and suspensions flexed their muscles over axle-deep ruts and miles of pounding gravel. "And not a single truck turned back or dropped out due to mechanical failure," states the official AAA report of the test. Every model proved its over-all economy by its ironclad ability to stay on the job! Stop by; we'll talk about it.

Choose your model from among Chevrolet's famous economy-proved Alcan Champs! Short-stroke V8's are standard in all heavyweight truck models and in many of the middleweights. They're loaded with modern features and built to take it!

Starring Rock Hudson, Lauren Bacall, Robert Stack and Dorothy Malone, the photoplay is the story of a decent love that fought to live against the vice and immorality of an oil baron's wastrel family and of a shocking secret that thrusts their private lives into public view. Turncoat GI Turns His Back On Parents after Squabble

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Arlie Pate, an American prisoner who chose three years in Red China at the close of Korean fighting, has turned his back on home again—this time over a row with his father.

Sheriff Howard Cheatham had had arrested Pate earlier in the evening on an assault charge filed by his father, Daniel H. Pate, 54.

The elder Pate, both eyes blackened, told Cheatham his son had given him a severe beating but did not disclose the nature of their difference.

At the sheriff's office, Arlie bargained with his father. "If you'll drop the charges, I'll leave here and never see you and the farm again," Cheatham quoted him as saying.

The father agreed. Pate returned to the farm and he and Donald packed a bag. They hiked to Murphysboro and there hailed cab driver H. T. WRight who drove them to St. Louis. Wright said his fare for the 80-mile trip was $32.

Pate was one of 21 American prisoners who originally refused repatriation when peace came to Korea in 1953.

He got homesick last fall and the Red Chinese allowed him to leave. He negotiated a $636 loan from the U. S. State Department and made the trip home by plane, arriving at the family farm Dec. 6.

Probably his only satisfactory answer to why he returned came when he hugged his mother and told newsmen: "This is the reason."

About his three years with the Reds, he commented only that he'd been "curious."

The Pate farm is a hilly 78-acres. Only about half is open to cultivation. Arlie's ailing father worked the place last year behind a team of 20-year-old horses.

The family had visions during that long night waiting for Arlie's arrival. The farm mortgage would be paid off in May. "After that," the father predicted, "me and the boys are going to so dome fixing up."

But the only progress reports available on Arlie following his return came from county law officers summoned to settle barroom disputes in which he was involved.

Greenfield Mothers Will March Tonight

GREENFIELD— Greenfield will get the jump on other communities in Ohio in staging the annual "Mothers' March" for the March of Dimes.

Spearheaded by members of the Mothers Club, women will canvass Thursday night for contributions to the campaign.

Elsewhere over the state the solicitation is generally scheduled for Jan. 31.

Union Twp. Zoning Board Report Explains Policies

The Union Township Zoning Board of Appeals has followed a policy of leniency throughout its first year of existence in an effort to educate residents of the area in the new regulations and acquaint them with procedures.

This was emphasized in the board's first annual report. Although it was more in the nature of an informal statement and summary of its activities, the board's report points out that its purpose has been to impress the people with the objectives of the zoning code they approved by popular vote.

The report said the board members agreed that the year's education should be sufficient and that, from now on, no building should be started before the permit is in their hands. Farm homes and buildings, it pointed out, do not come under the zoning regulations.

THE PURPOSE of the zoning code, it was explained, is primarily for orderly planning for long range development by setting aside certain zones, or areas, for industry and others for residential and farming.

A basic zoning map was drawn up first by the elected commission. Any changes from "conforming" to "non - conforming" —that is, from residential to industrial, for example, must be approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

In some of the "conforming"—or residential zones—on the basic zoning map, there were established businesses. The board has emphasized several times that there is no disposition to force these out; however, it also has pointed out, that the owners of such non-conforming properties must apply for re-zoning for these particular areas. This procedure has been described by the board as merely routine, but it must be done within the year. There is a nominal fee for this.

THE BOARD'S statement said that owners of property that has been re - zoned from conforming to non-conforming, or visa versa, are expected to get their new "certificates of occupancy" within the allotted time. The county prosecutor and sheriff are the enforcing agencies for the zoning code.

Two non-conforming areas (in which businesses were established) remain to be re-zoned, the board's report said and added that "unless they are re-zoned during the year, they will be returned to the residential (conforming) area and cease to operate.

The Zoning Board of Appeals, the report said, was intended to be self-supporting and has "worked that way during the past year." Permits issued last year had an estimated value of $591,000 for housing and industry combined. Approval was given 21 permits to re-zone in the township. Building and re-zoning permits issued amounted to $664,000, the board estimated in its report.

Board expenses were $91 for supplies and advertising and $476 for secretarial work.

The report was compiled by Osman King, who was reappointed secretary for another year at the board's last meeting. Members of the board are Frank Dill, chairman for the coming year; Carl Wilt, now vice-chairman after serving the first year as chairman; Franke Weade, Glenn Heistand and Joe White.

County Police Seek Autoist With 'Arsenal'

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Police in three counties today searched for a man who fled from a state highway patrolman trying to make a routine arrest. The man's car contained a small arsenal.

A second man, identified by patrolmen as Harvey R. Chrysler, 44, of Columbus, was captured shortly after he ran from the car. Chrysler told the patrol he was hitchhiking and did not know the name of the man with whom he was riding.

Patrolman Robert E. Klein, who stopped the car for speeding, said it contained two automatic pistols, an army carbine and a blackjack.

The patrol said the car had been stolen from a Mansfield man Nov. 1 and had license plates issued to a Robert Young of Lima, who reported the plates lost.

Klein said that when he signaled the car to pull over, its two occupants jumped out and fled. Chrysler was the only one he could catch, the patrolman said.

The incident happened Tuesday night on U. S. 23 about five miles south of here. Since then, roadblocks were set up in Ross, Scioto and Pike counties in an effort to apprehend Chrysler's companion.

New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks

Six heavily loaded Chevy trucks ran all the way up the rugged Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! That's cutting more than a full day off the normal running time! They ran right around the clock, stopping only to refuel.

But the important fact about this run was that it proved new Chevy trucks through and through. The Alcan Highway is a supreme test of every truck component. Engines had to prove their power up high-climbing grades and through washouts. Frames and suspensions flexed their muscles over axle-deep ruts and miles of pounding gravel. "And not a single truck turned back or dropped out due to mechanical failure," states the official AAA report of the test. Every model proved its over-all economy by its ironclad ability to stay on the job! Stop by; we'll talk about it.

Choose your model from among Chevrolet's famous economy-proved Alcan Champs! Short-stroke V8's are standard in all heavyweight truck models and in many of the middleweights. They're loaded with modern features and built to take it!

Proved on the Alcan Highway

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 32 years old and my husband is 50. We've been married 14 years, believing (most of that time) that we never could have a child. But I never stopped praying and now we are blessed with a beautiful little girl.

We just manage to get by on my husband's earnings, but I've always been completely happy, coming from a large family with so very much love for one another. And I love my husband and baby dearly.

I've never been a religious person, never attending church. Yet I've always had faith in God and prayed to Him in my own way.

Five months ago my mother passed away very suddenly. I can't explain in words what happened to me inside. It was as if the very foundations fell out of my world. Everyone says time will ease the pain; but I am sick inside and need God's help. I've realized with a jolt how little I know about religion.

Now I feel I'd like to change my faith and become a Roman Catholic. But I want to know and understand the faith, and somehow find peace of God. I've read a few books on the subject, but I still don't feel I've learned enough to take the final step—though I deeply need to turn to religion and God for help.

R. Y.

DEAR R. Y.: Inasmuch as we come to life through our mother, who (for most of us) is also the main channel of our sustenance and solace and survival in infancy, it is inescapable that she would be "the very foundation" of our sense of well being. That is, if we are so fortunate as to have had a tolerably good experience of life, in early relation to her.

Thus, to anyone who has known a mother's presence and attentive care sufficiently to have grown deeply familiar with the "feel" of it, at the core of his existence—to that person, her death in later years is a bereavement different from any other in the field of human relations. As you say, it is as if "the very foundations of one's world" have crumbled.

Therefore, in the wake of a mother's death, it is natural that sons and daughters feel lost for a while, as if "the light in the window" had vanished from life; as if they are left in darkness, desolately in need of finding a new vital center of reference, in accommodating to the business of living.

This is apt to be true regardless of their age or degree of social maturity. But is more desperately felt, perhaps, by the more juvenile or dependent types; or by those grown-ups who haven't yet matured spiritually into "reborn" awareness of the eternal implications of human destiny. This awareness—of "what it's all about" — links up with "faith." And it tends to foster growing reliance upon one's own self, or rather one's inherent powers rooted in the soul's relationship to God.

It seems you are moving painfully towards an awakening of this sort. And since you incline towards the Roman Catholic church, on the hunch that its teachings may meet your needs, and be a "lamp to your feet" and a gateway to peace, I suggest that you read Frank Sheed's classic "A Map of Life" (Sheed & Ward publishers).

It is well written easily readable—a bluntly simple inclusive account of Roman Catholic doctrine as concerns the purpose of life. Also it is a small book, only 178 pages, which speaks to the mind rather than the emotions—hence should help to clarify your confusion, and bring you to a decision, one way or another.

Wylie Named Compensation Bureau Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Chalmers P. Wylie, 36, new administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation, will be sworn in to the $18,000-a-year post today.

Wylie, Columbus city attorney, was named to the state position by Gov. C. William O'Neill Wednesday. He will take over immediately. The bureau handles claims of injured workmen under the state-operated insurance plan.

A native of Norwich, Muskingum County, Wylie attended Otterbein College and Ohio State University and is a graduate of Harvard Law School.

The Republican-dominated state Senate refused to confirm Scanlon's appointment.

Wylie, an assistant attorney general under Hugh S. Jenkins and O'Neill, was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general in the May primary election.

He was elected Columbus city attorney, a post which pays $10,500 a year, in 1953. He recently was elected president of the Ohio Municipal League.

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren is a tall, 30-year-old, extraordinarily intelligent English instructor at Columbia University who looks somewhat like Joseph Cotten in his younger days and who does not own a television set.

He plans to buy one, however. It will be an appropriate gesture, for he has recently come into a position to afford one and he also has recently made television history of a kind.

This week he ran his television quiz show earnings to $104,500 after nine arduous weeks of answering an unlimited variety of questions on the best of this season's new TV quiz programs, Twenty-One (NBC-TV, Mondays). The previous TV giveaway record was $100,000, won by five persons on The Big Surprise.

Van Doren has strong nerves and self-confidence — which are quite different from egotism. Most quiz contestants eventually begin to act like hams. Van Doren does not.

He says he hasn't the vaguest idea what his I.Q. is. When people try to discover the sources of his intelligence, he gives the credit to his father, Mark Van Doren, the writer and teacher, and his mother, a former newspaper woman.

"In my family we were always in the habit of looking things up when we didn't know the answer," he said. "Just the other night when I was up in Connecticut having dinner with my parents, we all had different ideas on the name of the malarial-bearing mosquito. We looked it up. It's a mosquito of the genus Anopheles."

No matter how much he makes on Twenty-One, Van Doren plans to continue teaching. After buying a car and a TV set he plans to use the rest as a backlog which will enable him to write fiction without having to do some of the hack writing necessary to piece out an instructor's salary. He mutters something about buying a house some day. A house requires a wife, of course, and probably Van Doren has a girl in mind. But he absolutely declines to identify her.

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

From what I have observed in some parts of the county and have been told by Game Protector David J. Krupla and others, I would say that the carry-over of pheasants and rabbits from the hunting season last fall is the largest in recent years.

This means, with a good spring, that the number of pheasants and rabbits next autumn will be the greatest in many years, and will be a big inducement to the hundreds of out-of-county hunters who usually assemble here during the hunting season.

Krupla informs me that the feeding stations the Conservation Department maintains in the game preserves of the county have been attracting surprisingly large number of pheasants.

A number of my farmer friends have told me of pheasants feeding with their poultry, or about their premises, and that they have never had as many pheasants wintering on their farms as they have had so far this winter.

Indications are that there will be many thousands of pheasants here when the hunting season opens next Nov. 15.

"UPPING STONES"

A few days ago while I was rambling about the Sturgeon Mill area with Omar Sturgeon, owner of the farm, he pointed out an old "upping stone" which was located near where a log stable formerly stood, and was used by both men and women (and children) in mounting saddle horses.

This particular "upping stone" as they were called, was a large granite boulder set in the ground on a slope so it was an easy matter to step on the lower side, then upon the apex of the stone, and reach the saddle of a horse without difficulty.

Years ago there were quite a number of the old "upping stones" in the city, placed conveniently where those desiring to mount horses would find them convenient.

A few of these old "upping stones" still exist at various places in the county.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Again we turn the pages back to 30 years ago to see what happened during the week.

Fayette streams were out of bank, and the Ohio River was up to the Union Station in Cincinnati. The east end sewer here was on a real rampage.

Washington C. H. was placed permanently in the Eastern Time Zone.

Probate Judge Nye Gregg died at 68 years of age, and Justice of the Peace Sherman A. Murry was named by Gov. Vic Donahey to succeed him.

Washington C. H. High School was given a tentative franchise in the South Central Ohio Athletic League.

The Baron Steuben Highway (Route 70 south) was impassable for automobiles.

A three - cent gasoline tax in Ohio was looming.

RACCOON NOT AFRAID

While at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Sturgeon, five miles south of Washington C. H., obtaining some information regarding people, places and things in that community, I saw some raccoon tracks in the mud in front of Omar's granary, 100 feet from his home.

Apparently the raccoon had been helping himself to corn, and I suspect he had not gone farther away than to crawl beneath the floor of the granary and take up his abode.

That bears out the statement that when raccoons find themselves deprived of dens in the woods, they will make their homes in buildings wherever they can find a suitable place to stay, apparently ignoring the owner of the buildings and his dogs.

ANOTHER UNUSUAL INCIDENT

I am in receipt of the following interesting communication from William S. (Bill) Paxson Jr., Washington C. H., regarding an unusual incident which occurred in Paris, involving a former Fayette Countian Dr. Cecil Rodger Hays and Bill:

"The "once-in-a-lifetime" incident which you mentioned in your Friday night column reminded me of one that occurred to me in Paris, France, two years ago.

"I was coming out of the subway at a stop that was unfamiliar to me. Inquiring the way to my destination from the several people who were arriving on the street at the same time, I was answered in good old American. "May I help you?" the voice said.

"Looking about I saw a pleasant-looking gentleman, to whom I said, "Yes. Where is the Salle Gaveau?"

"I'm going that way," he said. "Come along and I'll show it to you."

"As we started off I asked him the usual tourist's question, "What are you doing in Paris?"

"I live here," he said. "I'm a dentist."

"That's interesting," I said. "There is an American dentist living here whom I want to meet. He comes from my home town."

"What is his name?" he asked.

"Hays," I replied. His brother is our sheriff."

"That's a coincidence," he said. "My name is Hays, and I come from Washington C. H.!"

"Needless to say we indulged in some "home town" talk until we reached my destination. We set a date for my next visit to Paris, as he was leaving the next day for a game hunt in Austria."

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Van Doren is a tall, 30-year-old, extraordinarily intelligent English instructor at Columbia University who looks somewhat like Joseph Cotten in his younger days and who does not own a television set.

He plans to buy one, however. It will be an appropriate gesture, for he has recently come into a position to afford one and he also has recently made television history of a kind.

This week he ran his television quiz show earnings to $104,500 after nine arduous weeks of answering an unlimited variety of questions on the best of this season's new TV quiz programs, Twenty-One (NBC-TV, Mondays). The previous TV giveaway record was $100,000, won by five persons on The Big Surprise.

Van Doren has strong nerves and self-confidence — which are quite different from egotism. Most quiz contestants eventually begin to act like hams. Van Doren does not.

He says he hasn't the vaguest idea what his I.Q. is. When people try to discover the sources of his intelligence, he gives the credit to his father, Mark Van Doren, the writer and teacher, and his mother, a former newspaper woman.

"In my family we were always in the habit of looking things up when we didn't know the answer," he said. "Just the other night when I was up in Connecticut having dinner with my parents, we all had different ideas on the name of the malarial-bearing mosquito. We looked it up. It's a mosquito of the genus Anopheles."

No matter how much he makes on Twenty-One, Van Doren plans to continue teaching. After buying a car and a TV set he plans to use the rest as a backlog which will enable him to write fiction without having to do some of the hack writing necessary to piece out an instructor's salary. He mutters something about buying a house some day. A house requires a wife, of course, and probably Van Doren has a girl in mind. But he absolutely declines to identify her.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

From what I have observed in some parts of the county and have been told by Game Protector David J. Krupla and others, I would say that the carry-over of pheasants and rabbits from the hunting season last fall is the largest in recent years.

This means, with a good spring, that the number of pheasants and rabbits next autumn will be the greatest in many years, and will be a big inducement to the hundreds of out-of-county hunters who usually assemble here during the hunting season.

Krupla informs me that the feeding stations the Conservation Department maintains in the game preserves of the county have been attracting surprisingly large number of pheasants.

A number of my farmer friends have told me of pheasants feeding with their poultry, or about their premises, and that they have never had as many pheasants wintering on their farms as they have had so far this winter.

Indications are that there will be many thousands of pheasants here when the hunting season opens next Nov. 15.

"UPPING STONES"

A few days ago while I was rambling about the Sturgeon Mill area with Omar Sturgeon, owner of the farm, he pointed out an old "upping stone" which was located near where a log stable formerly stood, and was used by both men and women (and children) in mounting saddle horses.

This particular "upping stone" as they were called, was a large granite boulder set in the ground on a slope so it was an easy matter to step on the lower side, then upon the apex of the stone, and reach the saddle of a horse without difficulty.

Years ago there were quite a number of the old "upping stones" in the city, placed conveniently where those desiring to mount horses would find them convenient.

A few of these old "upping stones" still exist at various places in the county.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Again we turn the pages back to 30 years ago to see what happened during the week.

Fayette streams were out of bank, and the Ohio River was up to the Union Station in Cincinnati. The east end sewer here was on a real rampage.

Washington C. H. was placed permanently in the Eastern Time Zone.

Probate Judge Nye Gregg died at 68 years of age, and Justice of the Peace Sherman A. Murry was named by Gov. Vic Donahey to succeed him.

Washington C. H. High School was given a tentative franchise in the South Central Ohio Athletic League.

The Baron Steuben Highway (Route 70 south) was impassable for automobiles.

RACCOON NOT AFRAID

While at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Sturgeon, five miles south of Washington C. H., obtaining some information regarding people, places and things in that community, I saw some raccoon tracks in the mud in front of Omar's granary, 100 feet from his home.

Apparently the raccoon had been helping himself to corn, and I suspect he had not gone farther away than to crawl beneath the floor of the granary and take up his abode.

That bears out the statement that when raccoons find themselves deprived of dens in the woods, they will make their homes in buildings wherever they can find a suitable place to stay, apparently ignoring the owner of the buildings and his dogs.

ANOTHER UNUSUAL INCIDENT

I am in receipt of the following interesting communication from William S. (Bill) Paxson Jr., Washington C. H., regarding an unusual incident which occurred in Paris, involving a former Fayette Countian Dr. Cecil Rodger Hays and Bill:

"The "once-in-a-lifetime" incident which you mentioned in your Friday night column reminded me of one that occurred to me in Paris, France, two years ago.

"I was coming out of the subway at a stop that was unfamiliar to me. Inquiring the way to my destination from the several people who were arriving on the street at the same time, I was answered in good old American. "May I help you?" the voice said.

"Looking about I saw a pleasant-looking gentleman, to whom I said, "Yes. Where is the Salle Gaveau?"

"I'm going that way," he said. "Come along and I'll show it to you."

"As we started off I asked him the usual tourist's question, "What are you doing in Paris?"

"I live here," he said. "I'm a dentist."

"That's interesting," I said. "There is an American dentist living here whom I want to meet. He comes from my home town."

"What is his name?" he asked.

"Hays," I replied. His brother is our sheriff."

"That's a coincidence," he said. "My name is Hays, and I come from Washington C. H.!"

"Needless to say we indulged in some "home town" talk until we reached my destination. We set a date for my next visit to Paris, as he was leaving the next day for a game hunt in Austria."

Hamilton 'Bicentennial Year' Honors First Head of Treasury

By H. D. CRAWFORD

WASHINGTON — Alexander Hamilton is taking over again at the United States Treasury. At least you get that impression from the exhibits arranged for the year-long bicentennial, now in progress, of the dynamic first secretary of the treasury, who was born on Jan. 11, 1757, on Nevis Island in the British West Indies.

It is appropriate that historic coincidence placed Hamilton's birth anniversary half way between the opening of Congress and the inauguration.

Hamilton worked brilliantly and persistently to get his financial and tax programs adopted by Congress. Some historians insist that the ambitious Hamilton cherished the presidency himself.

When President Eisenhower proclaimed the Alexander Hamilton bicentennial, he added that Hamilton's service during the Revolutionary War, in the Continental Congress and the New York Assembly, in working for acceptance of the Constitution, and as first secretary of the treasury "proved him to be one of the boldest and most farsighted of the founders of our nation."

VIEWED from our 200 - year perspective, one of the most impressive things about Hamilton is that he packed so much activity and achievement into 47 years of life. It was at that age that he left his newly -built home and his wife and eight children to meet Aaron Burr in an early - morning duel on the New Jersey side of the Hudson. Burr's bullet found its mark, and Hamilton died.

Hamilton's literary and intellectual qualities found expression when he was only 12 years old, after he went to work for a merchant in the Virgin Islands.

He wrote: "My ambition is prevalent, so that I condemn the grovelling condition of a clerk, or the like, to which my fortune condemns me, and would willingly risk my life, though not my character, to exalt my station. . .I mean to prepare for futurity."

Alexander Hamilton

Ambition was prevalent throughout Hamilton's life, and he died defending his character. Hamilton's military genius prepared the famous Federalist papers and many documents for Washington, including the President's Farewell Address.

REVOLUTION preliminaries interrupted Hamilton's work at King's college, now Columbus University. When only 17 he addressed an anti British mass meeting and began writing newspaper articles and pamphlets that won the praise of colonial leaders.

Hamilton at 20 became Gen. Washington's personal secretary and aide-de-camp with the rank of lieutenant colonel. Although cherishing dreams of military glory, Hamilton fought most of the Revolution at his desk handling complicated matters in Washington's headquarters.

He did get some front - line action when he led a successful American raid on Redoubt No. 10 at the-day when Lord Cornwallis surrendered.

Hamilton's most lasting contributions were his vigorous writing and oratory to bring about the acceptance of the Constitution, and his organization of the new nation.

The latter were so carefully and thoroughly worked out that few changes have been made in them since.

Hamilton was only 32 when he became secretary of the treasury, and had just reached 38 when he resigned his $3,500 salary to resume law practice in New York. In that period he built a firm financial structure for the young nation. This included establishment of a national bank, an internal revenue system, and a plan for protecting the interests of American industries.

HAMILTON worked throughout his life for a strong central government. His Federalist theories differed radically from those of Thomas Jefferson, Washington's secretary of state. These cabinet members became leaders of the nation's first two major political parties.

Hamilton, a small man only 5 feet 7 inches tall, was one of the most brilliant orators of his time. He aimed his oratory and writing, however, at selected leaders. Hamilton believed the common man was ignorant, selfish, and incompetent to make important political decisions.

He wanted the states subservient to a strong central control.

When the nation had to choose between Jefferson and Aaron Burr for President, however, Hamilton supported Jefferson. Then, when Burr ran for governor of New York, Hamilton supported Burr's opponent. Burr was defeated. Burr's anger at Hamilton brought the challenge to the fatal duel — an episode which Henry Adams, the historian called "the most dramatic moment in the early politics of the Union."

Spanish War Vet Details Medic's Aid

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A Spanish-American War veteran told a federal court jury Wednesday that Dr. John C. Coldiron cured him in two months of what he claimed was drug addiction.

Dr. Coldiron, a former Kentucky state senator, is on trial here on a five-count charge of illegally administering narcotics.

The veteran, 78-year-old Early Johnson of Combs, Ky., testified as a defense witness. He said that when he came to his daughter's home in Dayton in 1955, he was addicted to the use of morphine. Dr. Coldiron cured him in two months, Johnson added.

The daughter, Mrs. Alma Thompson, gave testimony supporting her father's statement.

Dr. Edward Geiser of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Cincinnati testified that Johnson was not an addict.

Other testimony brought out that Dr. Coldiron had been paid by the VA to treat Johnson, but that the 59-year-old Dayton physician did not report to the VA that the treatment was for drug addiction.

Mrs. Anna Gossett of Dayton also testified Wednesday that Dr. Coldiron had cured her of drug addiction.

Several more defense witnesses are to testify today.

Deer Carcass Law Change Is Sought

COLUMBUS (AP) — A Harrison County Democrat has proposed a bill in the Ohio House that would give the motorist who kills a deer on the highway the right to consume the carcass.

The bill, introduced Wednesday by Rep. Arthur H. Milleson, specifies, however, that th deer meat be consumed "only within the (motorist's) immediate family."

This means, in effect, that you couldn't invite guests over to help your family at the deer.

Under present law, the carcass of a deer killed by a car is turned over to local game protectors who give it to a public institution for consumption.

Potatoes from the fall crops were a shade higher, but still a good buy.

Pride of the Neighborhood!

As you would expect, it signals the most joyful of family celebrations—and occasions the heartfelt congratulations of friends and acquaintances.

But you might be surprised, we think, to learn of the widespread rejoicing which the arrival of a new Cadillac frequently inspires.

In fact, the car invariably becomes a source of genuine pride and satisfaction throughout the entire neighborhood in which it resides.

The neighborhood understandably delights in having a beautiful new Cadillac to grace its streets . . . and takes great pleasure in knowing that one of its own has been able to realize the dream that lives in the hearts of so many.

And we think you might also be surprised to learn that this happy event is currently taking place in a great many neighborhoods that have never before laid claim to a Cadillac car.

For there is an ever-growing awareness that Cadillac—with all its incomparable motoring virtues—is one of the soundest and wisest purchases a motorist can make.

Dam Fixup Planned

WARREN (AP)—Repairs to a new dam across the Grand River, damaged by a flash flood, are being planned by the owners, the Modd Feed mill. Fast melting snow and heavy rain washed out a wing wall of the dam located southwest of Parkman in Geauga County.

Cadillac

Pride of the Neighborhood!

As you would expect, it signals the most joyful of family celebrations—and occasions the heartfelt congratulations of friends and acquaintances.

But you might be surprised, we think, to learn of the widespread rejoicing which the arrival of a new Cadillac frequently inspires.

In fact, the car invariably becomes a source of genuine pride and satisfaction throughout the entire neighborhood in which it resides.

The neighborhood understandably delights in having a beautiful new Cadillac to grace its streets . . . and takes great pleasure in knowing that one of its own has been able to realize the dream that lives in the hearts of so many.

And we think you might also be surprised to learn that this happy event is currently taking place in a great many neighborhoods that have never before laid claim to a Cadillac car.

For there is an ever-growing awareness that Cadillac—with all its incomparable motoring virtues—is one of the soundest and wisest purchases a motorist can make.

From a standpoint of purchase price, maintenance, operation and resale value, the car represents a truly extraordinary investment.

We will be happy to put you behind the wheel at any time for a personal demonstration.

Cincinnati Recalling 1937 And 'Black Sund ay' Flood

CINCINNATI (AP) — It was 20 years ago today that Cincinnati had its "Black Sunday."

The Ohio River suddenly surged toward its highest level in recorded history and two days later the river was to reach its all-time peak of 79.99 feet.

"Black Sunday," of course, wasn't confined to Cincinnati.

Days of rain and then snow sent the river to all time high levels at Portsmouth; Lawrenceburg, Aurora and Evansville, Ind., Louisville, Ky., and other points along its course. It was flood that caused untold millions of dollars worth of damage and left thousands homeless. Loss of life was heavy but, oddly, there were only eight deaths in Cincinnati.

State national guard units, the U. S. Army and various relief agencies poured men and supplies into the flood-stricken area in a desperate effort to alleviate the suffering.

But that day just 20 years ago is the one Cincinnatians remember most vividly.

The river had been rising steadily for days and as the rains continued the weather bureau daily hiked its prediction of a flood crest.

On Saturday, Jan. 23 it appeared as if the end was in sight. The river was almost stationary at 72.8 feet as cold weather and snow seemed likely to bring an early crest.

Then came more rain and on Sunday the river stage surged upward again. A million and a half dollar fire broke out in the heavily industrial and flooded Camp Washington area. Street car service was suspended. Water service was cut off except for two two-hour periods a day and residents were ordered to boil all drinking water.

On the bleak Sunday and the days that followed, factories, stores and theatres were closed. Citizens used springs, wells and tanks as sources of water.

It was estimated that on that Sunday and the following Monday one-tenth of the area of the city was directly hit by flood waters.

Bridges connecting Cincinnati with neighboring towns in Kentucky across the Ohio River were closed.

A shuttle train managed to make it across one railroad bridge to haul food and supplies to flood-stricken residents of the Kentucky cities.

All railroad service was halted at Cincinnati's Union Terminal as floodwaters swirled along Lincoln Park Drive, the wide street which is the approach to the terminal.

In the Associated Press office, the breakdown of electrical power knocked out teletype circuits on the evening of "Black Sunday." Roy Schneider, still in the AP's Cincinnati office, and Ben Ronshaim, now retired, manned Morse code circuits to keep news of the flood moving to the rest of the world.

Newspaper files show that the most popular items for sale were candles, being hawked by street salesmen, and rubber boots. Liquor stores were closed for days but beer was a popular commodity—not necessarily because it was alcoholic but because it could be used as a substitute for scarce drinking water.

And such was the situation all along the river. Food was short at Portsmouth. Louisville had no electric power and federal troops were pushed into that beleagured city. National guardsmen patrolled the Indiana side of the river. Evansville was without electric power and there was little or no heat in downtown establishments.

In Cincinnati there were 18 consecutive days on which the river exceeded the 52-foot flood stage.

As late as Jan. 19, there had been no indications of the disaster to come. Then it began to rise steadily.

On Jan. 22 the level reached 71.3 feet, exceeding the previous all-time record of 71.1 feet in 1884.

By that time bridges were being closed here. The levee broke at Lawrenceburg, Ind., and water flowed over the flood wall at Portsmouth, Ohio into the downtown district.

Jan. 23 was the day of false hope. With the river nearly stationary at 72.8 feet and cold weather moving in, the weather bureau forecast a crest of 73.5 feet. By that time the estimated flood damage in this area had been increased to five million dollars. It was estimated there were 75,000 persons homeless in Ohio, 35,000 in Indiana and 65,000 homeless was predicted for Kentucky.

And then came "Black Sunday" and the days of disaster.

Broadened Flexible System Is Urged

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson says the present flexible price support system—the key plan of the Eisenhower administration farm program—should be broadened "as a long range goal."

Such broadening is needed, he said, to permit "greater freedom for prices to change."

In a speech before the National Wool Growers Assn. convention, Benson said he advocates government price supports "not as an end in themselves but as a way of providing needed stability in agriculture."

Ohio Liquor Yields Record Tax Take

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio and federal treasuries will profit by about $175 million from record breaking liquor sales in Ohio stores and agencies during 1956, the state liquor department says.

Sales in the state's 297 retail and wholesale outlets totaled $219,182,946 last year—an increase of $15,974,908, or 7.8 per cent, over the previous record high of $203,208,038, established in 1955.

The department said an estimated 89 per cent or $175 million of the $219 million represent taxes.

Last year $21,300,000 from net profits was transferred to the Ohio general revenue fund. The mental health program will get about $6 million.

Australia is spending a billion dollars to reverse the flow of the Snowy and Eucumbene rivers so that their waters will provide power and irrigation to an arid plain. At present the life-giving waters of the two rivers flow uselessly into the sea at the rate of a half-million gallons per minute.

Ike's Economic Talk To Stir New Debate

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower's views on the health of the economy—as expressed today in his message to the Congress—were largely foreshadowed last week in his budget messages. In that he clearly was building on the expectation of continuing good times and was also warning of the threat of further inflation.

But his precisely stated views today will sharpen the growing debate among businessmen and bankers as to which is the real danger ahead: Inflation or deflation, tight money or a coming shift from expansion to retrenchment.

There is some apparent divergence among the money managers themselves

The Federal Reserve Board continues to regard tight money as a needed check on the industrial expansion boom. But the President is asking Congress to raise the veteran administration's guaranteed mortgage rate to 5 per cent —not to make money tight, but to lure more investment funds into home building and thus counteract its lag.

And so the debate goes on. Some small businessmen contend that tight money discriminates in favor of big business. Most bankers deny that they aren't meeting the needs for credit of any "worthy" small businessman.

And most of them back the Federal Reserve's tight money policy. Alfred Hayes, president of the New York Federal Reserve, tells members of the New York State Bankers Assn. that small business seems to have got its share of the huge rise in commercial bank loans.

"Upward tendencies still seem to be clearly dominant so that continued restraint is called for," Hayes says, but "we must be ever on the alert for convincing signs of a change."

As to chances of that change, Hayes points out that "pleasant though it would be to think that the current upward trend can continue indefinitely without interruption, history tells us that this would be too much to expect."

Carl E. Allen, president of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank tells the Detroit Economic Club that credit now is neither too scarce nor too tight, but is the price of orderly economic growth.

S. Sloan Colt, chairman of the Bankers Trust Co. of New York, says in his annual report: "The effects of wage and price inflation are clearly visible; savings are adequate to keep pace with booming investment outlays; some labor and materials are short; production costs have soared; profit margins are lower and the liquid asset position of business has been reduced."

And so the debate goes.

Times are booming, as the President notes. But tight money and wage and price inflation coming at a time of record industrial expansion worry some bankers—and some in the stock market.

Pushes Polio Shots

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Academy of Medicine has offered to provide doctors with enough Salk vaccine to inoculate against polio all children in Cuyahoga County up to age 19.

The vaccine will be supplied free, and the state health department has given assurance an ample quantity is available.

Peaceful Use of Atom Eyed In Food Preservation Field

ROME (AP) — Your potatoes are sprouting too much down in the cellar this winter? Dose them with a little radioactivity.

The peaceful outcrop of the atom can stiffen the stalks of barley and make for quicker and easier harvesting. It can keep green bananas in storage longer before they ripen, tell the scientist why some sheep need more food than others and aid the farmer in hundreds of different ways.

Throughout the world the search goes on unceasingly for ways and means of using the atom for bringing cheaper, better foods to the market—and getting them there fresher and free of germs.

The Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations has set up a new committee to correlate and exchange information on ways the atom can help in European agriculture.

The group broke up the experiments underway into four main groups — crop production, soil preservation and enrichment, food preservation and animal science.

So far as crop production, soil fertility and livestock production are concerned, the amount of isotopes and equipment needed are relatively inexpensive, and training in their use can be acquired in a relatively short time, the group reported.

The main benefit of radiation in these fields lies in its ability to penetrate biological tissues and induce changes in them. For the moment, these changes possible are essentially destructive. Experiments are concentrated on the use of isotopes to kill off insect pests infecting growing crops, livestock, or stored foods and to aid in sterilizing or pasteurizing foodstuffs, like meat, by killing bacteria.

The delegates agreed, however, that atomic preservation is unlikely to replace normal heat sterilization for foodstuffs where it is now used, or the preservation of meat and fish by antibiotics.

Rather, they agreed, it should be developed as an "accessory" treatment along with such methods as refrigeration, or salting.

Consumer Boycott Urged by Expert

CINCINNATI (AP)—Dr. T. J. Hailstones, business administration division director at Xavier University, said Tuesday that consumers can fight inflation by boycotting wage or price increases.

He told a civic group that "consumer apathy" is a factor in inflation. He recommended, in addition to boycotting high priced goods, a protest to government, labor and management officials on wage or price hikes.

Ike's Economic Talk To Stir New Debate

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower's views on the health of the economy—as expressed today in his message to the Congress—were largely foreshadowed last week in his budget messages. In that he clearly was building on the expectation of continuing good times and was also warning of the threat of further inflation.

But his precisely stated views today will sharpen the growing debate among businessmen and bankers as to which is the real danger ahead: Inflation or deflation, tight money or a coming shift from expansion to retrenchment.

There is some apparent divergence among the money managers themselves.

The Federal Reserve Board continues to regard tight money as a needed check on the industrial expansion boom. But the President is asking Congress to raise the veteran administration's guaranteed mortgage rate to 5 per cent—not to make money tight, but to lure more investment funds into home building and thus counteract its lag.

And so the debate goes on. Some small businessmen contend that tight money discriminates in favor of big business. Most bankers deny that they aren't meeting the needs for credit of any "worthy" small businessman.

And most of them back the Federal Reserve's tight money policy. Alfred Hayes, president of the New York Federal Reserve, tells members of the New York State Bankers Assn. that small business seems to have got its share of the huge rise in commercial bank loans.

"Upward tendencies still seem to be clearly dominant so that continued restraint is called for," Hayes says, but "we must be ever on the alert for convincing signs of a change."

As to chances of that change, Hayes points out that "pleasant though it would be to think that the current upward trend can continue indefinitely without interruption, history tells us that this would be too much to expect."

Carl E. Allen, president of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank tells the Detroit Economic Club that credit now is neither too scarce nor too tight, but is the price of orderly economic growth.

S. Sloan Colt, chairman of the Bankers Trust Co. of New York, says in his annual report: "The effects of wage and price inflation are clearly visible; savings are adequate to keep pace with booming investment outlays; some labor and materials are short; production costs have soared; profit margins are lower and the liquid asset position of business has been reduced."

And so the debate goes.

Times are booming, as the President notes. But tight money and wage and price inflation coming at a time of record industrial expansion worry some bankers—and some in the stock market.

Peaceful Use of Atom Eyed In Food Preservation Field

The peaceful outcrop of the atom can stiffen the stalks of barley and make for quicker and easier harvesting. It can keep green bananas in storage longer before they ripen, tell the scientist why some sheep need more food than others and aid the farmer in hundreds of different ways.

Throughout the world the search goes on unceasingly for ways and means of using the atom for bringing cheaper, better foods to the market—and getting them there fresher and free of germs.

The Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations has set up a new committee to correlate and exchange information on ways the atom can help in European agriculture.

The group broke up the experiments underway into four main groups — crop production, soil preservation and enrichment, food preservation, and animal science.

So far as crop production, soil fertility and livestock production are concerned, the amount of isotopes and equipment needed are relatively inexpensive, and training in their use can be acquired in a relatively short time, the group reported.

The main benefit of radiation in these fields lies in its ability to penetrate biological tissues and induce changes in them. For the moment, these changes possible are essentially destructive. Experiments are concentrated on the use of isotopes to kill off insect pests infecting growing crops, livestock, or stored foods and to aid in sterilizing or pasteurizing foodstuffs, like meat, by killing bacteria.

The delegates agreed, however, that atomic preservation is unlikely to replace normal heat sterilization for foodstuffs where it is now used, or the preservation of meat and fish by antibiotics.

Rather, they agreed, it should be developed as an "accessory" treatment along with such methods as refrigeration, or salting.

Consumer Boycott Urged by Expert

CINCINNATI (AP)—Dr. T. J. Hailstones, business administration division director at Xavier University, said Tuesday that consumers can fight inflation by boycotting wage or price increases.

He told a civic group that "consumer apathy" is a factor in inflation. He recommended, in addition to boycotting high priced goods, a protest to government, labor and management officials on wage or price hikes.

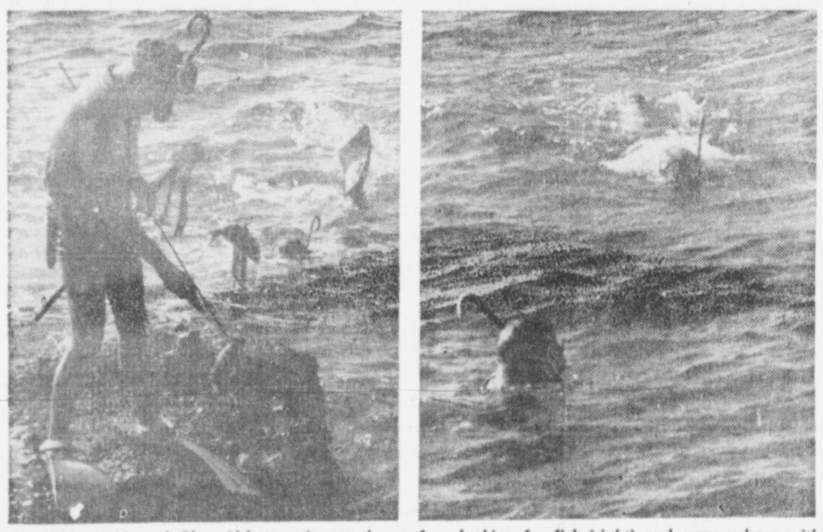
Sport Candids

BY FRANK KUCHIRCHUK



Earl Cavanaugh and Glen Abbott swim on the surface looking for fish (right) and come ashore with small ones speared for the benefit of underwater cameras, as these are too small for sport fishing.

SPEARFISHING is a sport for those who "want to get away from it all." And that's exactly what you do, "get away from it all" when you swim 10 to 70 feet below the surface.

It's a new world, the one at the bottom of the sea, and it's a quiet one. And then again it isn't for there are noises such as the grunt of a grouper as it swims by or the clicking sounds of the movements of broken coral.

First you hunt a fish, then shoot it with a speargun.

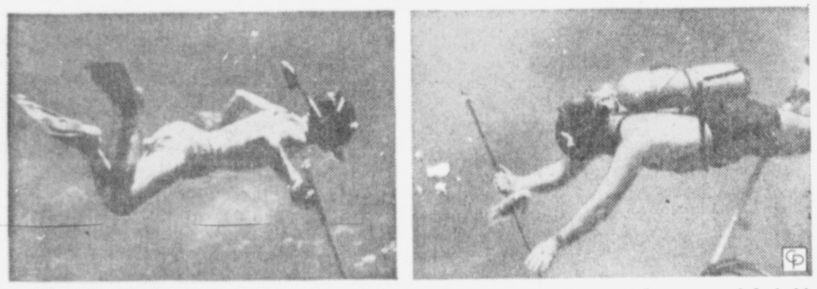
Surfacing a fish over 30 pounds after spearing it 40 or so feet below the surface is no soft job.

The fish puts up a fight for survival like no surface caster ever has experienced.

It tries to outswim you, can dart in and out of caverns and crevices and offers quite a challenge to the skindiver.

Earl Cavanaugh tells of the time he speared a grouper that turned out to be 120 pounds, and it required help from three of his fellow skindivers to surface the monster.

Earl and his friends are no amateurs. In 1954 he, Ted Ahlberg and John Kropac, all of Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, took third in the national spearfishing championships in Miami and, with Glen Abbott, consistently take first-place honors at contests held throughout the Caribbean.



The skindivers are photographed in action about 25 feet below surface. Fisherman at left holds breath to stay under water while one at right, wearing aqualung, can stay under for long periods.

Birdie Tebbetts Says Reds To Be Top Contender again

By George (Birdie) Tebbetts

NASHUA, N. H. (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs must be regarded as co-favorites for the National League pennant along with Brooklyn and Milwaukee.

If we're not harassed by an unusual run of bad luck, I'll be sorely disappointed if we're not up there all the way.

Three years ago, when I came to the Redlegs as manager, I said improvement of the pitching was my number one task. I reiterated that statement after one year with the club, repeated it each year and now I'm repeating it again with this addition:

I believe an improvement is in sight for next year with Joe Nuxhall, Hal Jeffcoat and Johnny Klippstein as the pitchers most likely to give the hurling a good lift. Nuxhall has a year of injuries behind him and if he can avoid injuries this year, should make the difference. Jeffcoat will pitch more frequently and Klippstein will improve.

We look for Brooks Lawrence to repeat his good year of 1956. We hope to realize the potential of Warren Hacker. Tom Acker and Don Gross, both young pitchers, have a year of experience under their belt. There is no better relief pitcher than Herschel Freeman. We expect Russ Meyer to help us.

We are a year older and the experience of having gone through a very close pennant, in itself, makes us stronger.

I look for Ted Kluszewski to have a slam-bang season. Few people realized what a terrific handicap he played under last year. There were days when he could hardly move but the big guy never complained.

I hear Big Klu is 100 per cent again and that's the best news I've heard all winter. With such fellows like Wally Post, Frank Robinson, Gus Bell, Ed Bailey and Smoky Purgess to provide the power and Roy McMillan and Johnny Temple furnishing everything else, we should have few worries.

We have the strongest bench in the league. Bailey led the circuit in pinch hitting. Burgess is the best pinch hitter I have seen since Johnny Mize. George Crowe and Bob Thurman give us tremendous reserve power. Rocky Bridges, Art Schult, Bob Blacena and either Alex Grammas or Don Hoak give us seasoned performers to meet any emergency.

'Honest Mistake' By Fireman OKd

TOLEDO (AP)—Perrysburg councilmen looked over the annual fire department report and noticed one run described as an "honest mistake."

Fire Chief Leonard Roberts explained that a volunteer fireman turned in an alarm after he drove by a house and saw a sudden flare of light. Firemen arrived to learn the flare resulted when an inhabitant of the house opened a stove door to burn some paper.

Weed-Control Hearing Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There will be a full-scale public hearing in March to determine whether railroads in Ohio have prevented and controlled weeds along their tracks.

Railroad brotherhoods, unions to which railroaders belong, do not think the railroads are doing a good job. They claim that in recent years weeds have grown high enough to make working on the railroad more dangerous.

Because weeds often hide the ground, they contend, a train crewman stepping off a car cannot tell whether his footing will be firm.

The brotherhoods filed a complaint with the state utilities commission last October. Since then many railroads have filed answers, claiming they are doing adequate jobs in cutting weeds and controlling them with chemicals.

Some railroads contended township trustees and not the commission have responsibility for weed control and asked the complaint be dismissed. But today the commission decided it had the power to hold a public hearing and set one for Tuesday, March 5.

Detroit Manager Expects Tigers To Be Top Finisher

By JACK TIGHE

SPRING LAKE, Mich. (AP) —The Detroit Tigers are going to move up this year and we hope to be on or right close to the top in 1957.

I firmly believe we have a chance this year because we have improved in the two places we were weakest last year, bench, especially in the field, and pitching depth. I well realize the Yankees are mighty tough but we've had good success against them the last two seasons. They whack those lower clubs and we will certainly have to do the same to keep pace with them.

A stronger bench will enable me to rest our front line men before they completely run down. Last year, we could not.

This year we will add fine reserve men in Eddie Robinson, Gil Coan and Ron Samford. Robinson will give us some lefthanded bench power and may be able to play about 50 games for us at top speed. Coan can furnish some lefthanded pinch swinging and can be used as a runner in advantageous spots. He has always been considered a fair enough outfielder. Several clubs were interested in Samford, an ex-Giant, who had a fine year at Charleston.

I think we are all agreed that we have three first rate pitchers in Lary, Hoeft and Foytack. They won 56 among them last year. Jim Bunning developed wonderfully during the season and when he came back from the minors he looked like a different lad. The reports on Duke Maas are very encouraging. Kerby Farrell tells me that Al Aber is 16 pounds lighter than he was at the season's end. I think it is agreed that Aber in good shape is a fine relief pitcher. We feel certain that Jack Crimian will help.

Another point of improvement is our defensive infield. Ray Boone should be able to make the switch from third to first okay. Jim Finigan and Reno Bertoia will battle it out for third base. Whoever hits best gets the job. I believe Frank Bolling is one of the league's better second basemen though his quiet way of playing might belie that fact. Harvey Kuenn is at short, of course.

For reserves we have Earl Torgeson and Jack Phillips among others although Torgeson claims he will win the regular first base job.

We are set in the outfield, except for center. Charlie Maxwell is a solid ball player and not the flash in the pan as some people might think. His fielding improved tremendously in '56. Al Kaline, of course, will be back in right. I look for a better showing by Bill Tuttle, who was a fine center fielder for us in 1955.

I certainly look for improvement by Frank House behind the plate. I know his inner workings and I feel I can help him. Red Wilson did a fine job for us the last four weeks of the season.

We will play a different type of ball. We won't have a catalogued type of play. We hope to use the element of surprise as often as possible. We also hope to bunt and run more. Not necessarily stealing bases but displaying more aggressiveness on base hits. The other clubs may beat us but they will have to be alert against us.

I will not attempt to pick an order of finish but I repeat the Tigers are going to beat someone out and we are aiming for the top.

Oberlin Virus Cases Studied

OBERLIN (AP)—A report was expected from the state health department today on a puzzling virus infection that has affected 82 students at Oberlin College. Twelve of the victims are in Allen Memorial Hospital here, 19 are confined to dormitories and the other 51 have been sent home.

"The present analysis of the situation indicates that the illness is a mild form of virus infection," said Dr. William E. Stevenson, president of the college. Doctors say complete rest is the only cure for the virus.

Larsen, Mantle Proving Costly To Yankee '9'

2 Top Stars Heading List of Holdouts in Major League Deals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The perfect game Don Larsen pitched in last fall's World Series is going to cost the New York Yankees more money than the world champions have offered their glamor pitchers.

While most Yankees have signed 1957 contracts without any noticeable kicks, the club's two showpieces — Larsen and Mickey Mantle — are making no bones about wanting more money.

Larsen, who posted a 11-5 regular season, said from his San Diego, Calif., home that he had returned his contract and wants $27,500.

He declined to say how much he received last year or how much the Yankees offered this time. It's a safe guess the $27,500 is close to twice the value of his 1956 contract. Unofficially it was believed the Yanks offered him $15,000 this year.

"If they don't do better than the offer they sent me," Larsen said, "I may end up tending bar."

Mickey, honored in Milwaukee Wednesday night as the Associated Press Male Athlete of 1956, has indicated he wants at least double the salary he received last year when he won baseball's triple crown: hitting (.353), runs batted in (130) and home runs (52). He is believed to have received around $35,000 last year.

The Yankees did sign two more players Wednesday, however, when shortstops Billy Hunter and Jerry Lumpe sent in their contracts.

Jim Hearn, also a right-hand pitcher, agreed to Philadelphia Phillies' terms. And St. Louis reduced its list of unsigned Cardinals to six with the signing of pitchers Don Liddle and Lloyd Merritt and first baseman Glenn Nelson.

The Baltimore Orioles have announced the signing of two rookies, bringing the total number of players under contract to 15.

Signed to contracts were Joe Van Durham, rookie outfielder discharged last fall from the Army, and Tommy Patton, 21-year - old catcher drafted last month from Omaha of the American Assn.

The Chicago White Sox today had players Nos. 14 and 15 lured into the fold for 1957 with the signing of rookie first baseman Norman Larker and southpaw reliefer Paul La Palme.

The Sox Wednesday signed No. 13, big first sacker Walt Dropo, who batted .229 last year. Dropo moved in as a regular on July 29 and hit .290 in 62 games.

Rocky Fork Growth Reflected in Report

HILLSBORO — Growth of the popularity of Rocky Fork Lake as a summer playground for Southern Ohio is reflected in a comparative study completed by Arnold Elzey, park manager.

The manager has compiled figures on the sale of various types of boat licenses and dock space during the 1956 season, compared with the opening season for the lake in 1953.

AS FAR as inboard motorboats are concerned, there were licenses issued for 45 such boats in 1953. By 1956, this had climbed to 101.

DURING the four - year period, actual cash receipts from the sale of these various permits climbed nearly 500 per cent.

At present, lake crews are busy with winter repairs of equipment. Elzey said some tentative plans are being made for some road work during the spring and early summer.

Plans are being worked out with the state highway department for improvement to the north beach road and the road leading into Lucky Landing. Elzey said it is hoped that both roads may be widened somewhat.

Clevelander's College Cage Status Eyed

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fred Sawyer, Cleveland high school basketball star, wants to enroll at the University of Louisville next month, but the Kentucky school says it is not interested in him until his status at Toledo University has been cleared up.

Sawyer, who graduates from Cleveland South High School this week, passed his entrance examination at Toledo Jan. 5 and was given a schedule of classes.

He said Wednesday he had changed his mind and planned to enroll at Louisville next month. He said athletic officials at Toledo had been informed of his change in plans.

Coach Bernard (Peck) Hickman said Wednesday night, however, that the Louisville is not interested in Sawyer if he is enrolled at Toledo.

The 6-9 cage star, with an average of close to 25 points a game, scored 32 points as South High coasted to a 74-48 victory over Rhodes Wednesday night. He completes his scholastic career against Cleveland Holy Name tomorrow night.

Sawyer said he decided to go to Louisville because he felt his prospects would be better there. He did not elaborate.

Polio Benefit Set for Jeff

Faculty and Alumni Meet in Cage Game

It worked out with a bunch of cagers from the school, augmented by a few others, Wednesday evening. And, the teachers-turned-athletes admitted they surprised even themselves with their performance.

They will meet a squad of alumni made up of Dale Coe, Joe Huff, Ronald Sams, John Wright, LeVern Bock and Art Exline. These names and faces are familiar to basketball fans in the Jeffersonville community, where they starred as Tigers not so long ago.

SPOKESMEN for both faculty and alumni have made it plain that this Friday night game will be no burlesque and that they are out to win — and both teams are convinced they can do just that.

This game will be the second half of a double feature for the evening.

The first half will be the play for the intermural volleyball championships, starting at 7 o'clock.

This will be the third polio fund benefit sports program staged at Jeffersonville. The previous netted $40 and $60 and sponsors are hoping, and expecting, this one to go higher.

An admission of 25 cents is to be charged for everyone — even the players.

Cochrane Predicts Mantle Record

"Black Mike" Cochrane of Philadelphia and Detroit Tiger fame made the statement Wednesday night after Mantle received the Frederick C. Miller Memorial Trophy as the male athlete of 1956.

The former star catcher, who has a sports show on a Chicago television station now, described the 25-year-old slugger as "the greatest switchhitter I ever saw."

Shooting Accuracy Helping OSU Quint

CHICAGO (AP) — Team accuracy from the floor and foul line is paying off for Ohio State although the league-leading Buckeyes have only one man among the top 14 scorers in the Big Ten race.

In five straight conference victories, Ohio State has hit .457 per cent of its field goals for a record pace and is second to Indiana in free throw accuracy with .714. The Hoosiers (2-2) have .732.

Also high on the field goal accuracy chart are Illinois (3-1) with .424, Minnesota (2-) .394 and Michigan (3-1) .393.

Ortiz Sparkles In Ring Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Boxing Assn. had better start making a spot in its rankings for lightweight Carlos Ortiz, a nifty combination puncher who remained unbeaten Wednesday night in gaining his 20th victory.

Ortiz, 20, disposed of Chicago's Bobby Rogers before the TV cameras in Chicago Stadium.

Celtics Pointing For Cage Records

NEW YORK (AP)—Having trampled all opposition in the race for the eastern division title of the National Basketball Assn., the Boston Celtics today were looking for new fields to conquer — with nothing in the record books shy of their grasp.

The talent-laden Bostonians displayed an awesome attack Wednesday night in rolling up 140 points to 108 for Syracuse to miss the alltime single team scoring record by only two points. Oddly enough, it was against the Celtics on Feb. 8, 1956 that Philadelphia set the mark at 142 points.

The Celtics, however, did set a season record, snapping the mark of 137 points set by St. Louis against New York last month.

Fund-Raising Cage Program Set For Friday Night at WHS

It will start at 6 p. m. Friday in the WHS gym with a game between the WHS freshmen and freshmen from Fairfield High School at Leesburg.

About an hour later, the WHS Reserves and the second stringers of the Varsity are to take the floor.

This game, Faculty Manager Clyde Cramer believes could be a dandy because of the competition among these boys for places on the Varsity.

The third and final game on the card will bring together the WHS Varsity and a team of former Lion cage stars.

On the alumni squad will be Wayne Van Meter, Claude Smith, Dewey Foster, Sam Marting, Jack Rettig, Lyle Self, Roger Mickle and Russell (Rebel) Campbell.

TWO FORMER Lion stars now in the service are expected to be home on leave in time to get in the game, too. One of them is Bob Alkire, who was on the All - SCO football, basketball and baseball teams when he was in high school. The other is Bob Dunton who was a three - sport main stay of the Lions and made the All-SCO football squad.

The sports program was arranged to bolster the WHS athletic fund which took a drop during the football season when the gate was off an average of around $300 a game.

Because this is a benefit show, an admission of $1 for everyone is to be charged.

Rupp Seeking Improvement In Cage Rules

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The top collegiate basketball powers are resting between semesters but outspoken Adolph Rupp, coach of fifth-ranked Kentucky, is still on the attack.

Rupp, never one to let success stop the search for improvement, has leveled a blast at rules he feels cut spectator interest.

He believes professional basketball is "way ahead of the colleges in progressive rules and I predict the next great development and growth in sports will be that of professional basketball. It has been forced to make progressive rule changes to hold spectator interest."

One rule Rupp would have the colleges pick up from the pros is the 24-second limit on ball-possession before a team takes a shot.

But the change he wants most is elimination of the bonus free throw — where a player is given a second free throw for making the first.

"It has no place in a competitive game," he said in outlining suggestions he has made to the NCAA for rules changes.

"The Big Ten has taken not only a sensible but a progressive step to clean up this cheap way of winning a game," he said. He referred to the Big Ten's "six-foul" rule. This disallows the bonus free throw on the first six fouls committed by a team in each half.

Young Yank Net Star Scares Hoad

The 19-year-old student at the University of California put the Aussie ace in the hole by winning the first two sets, but couldn't hold off Hoad's stirring rally. The final score: 4-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

The powerful American combination of Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Althea Gibson of New York blasted their way to the finals of the women's doubles, beating Loraine Coghlan and Margaret Helyer of Australia 6-1, 6-4 in the semifinals.

Stengel Says His Yankees To Be Stronger This Year

By CASEY STENGEL

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — The New York Yankees will open the 1957 season not only as World Champions but strengthened by valuable prospects in the pitching department and in the infield.

We should win the pennant unless Detroit, Chicago or Cleveland has strengthened considerably over last year. Detroit, you know, played the best baseball in the American League the last month of the 1956 season. Cleveland and Chicago have changed managers and that may enliven the players.

Detroit had our number last year, winning the season series from us 12 games to 10. This was only the second season series the Yankees have lost in my eight years as manager.

We had a good team in 1956, with good power, good speed and good defense. And it was a young club. The pitching wasn't what you would call excellent until those last five World Series games. Then it was simply tremendous. My pitchers gave me five straight complete games in that series and I think that's going to give fellows like Ford, Turley, Larsen, Kucks and Sturdivant all the confidence in the world. I look for improved pitching in '57. Remember, we also have Grim, Morgan and McDermott plus such fine young prospects as (Jim) Depalo, (Al) Cicotte, (Ralph) Terry, (Mark) Freeman and (Jack) Urban.

I don't have to worry about my catching with Yogi Berra working every day. Just in case, I have Elston Howard and two of the best catchers in the minors last year, Darrell Johnson and John Blanchard.

Billy Martin, Gil McDougald and Jerry Coleman can play any one of three infield positions and in an emergency I can use Bill Skowron at third or Andy Carey at short.

They tell me that Dick Sanders, who was voted the Eastern League's Most Valuable Player last year, is sure to make it some day at third base. I know what Bobby Richardson, who was at Denver last year, can do at second. He's a real comer. And don't overlook that Woody Held. He played shortstop at Denver last year but he can also play the outfield.

We're well protected at first base with Joe Collins to divide the chores with Skowron. Then there's a big rookie kid called Marv Throneberry. All he did last season was lead the American Association with 42 homers and 145 runs batted in. He was the league's Most Valuable Player.

Larsen, Mantle Proving Costly To Yankee '9'

2 Top Stars Heading List of Holdouts in Major League Deals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The perfect game Don Larsen pitched in last fall's World Series is going to cost the New York Yankees more money than the world champions have offered their glamor pitchers.

While most Yankees have signed 1957 contracts without any noticeable kicks, the club's two showpieces — Larsen and Mickey Mantle — are making no bones about wanting more money.

Larsen, who posted a 11-5 regular season, said from his San Diego, Calif., home that he had returned his contract and wants $27,500.

He declined to say how much he received last year or how much the Yankees offered this time. It's a safe guess the $27,500 is close to twice the value of his 1956 contract. Unofficially it was believed the Yanks offered him $15,000 this year.

"If they don't do better than the offer they sent me," Larsen said, "I may end up tending bar."

Mickey, honored in Milwaukee Wednesday night as the Associated Press Male Athlete of 1956, has indicated he wants at least double the salary he received last year when he won baseball's triple crown: hitting (.353), runs batted in (130) and home runs (52). He is believed to have received around $35,000 last year.

The Yankees did sign two more players Wednesday, however, when shortstops Billy Hunter and Jerry Lumpe sent in their contracts.

The Brooklyn Dodgers ran their list of satisfied players to 33, with seven to go, with the signing of three rookies — first baseman Jim Gentile, infielder Jasper Spears and all-around Mike Napoli.

Jim Hearn, also a right-hand pitcher, agreed to Philadelphia Phillies' terms. And St. Louis reduced its list of unsigned Cardinals to six with the signing of pitchers Don Liddle and Lloyd Merritt and first baseman Glenn Nelson.

The Baltimore Orioles have announced the signing of two rookies, bringing the total number of players under contract to 15.

Signed to contracts were Joe Van Durham, rookie outfielder discharged last fall from the Army, and Tommy Patton, 21-year - old catcher drafted last month from Omaha of the American Assn.

The Chicago White Sox today had players Nos. 14 and 15 lured into the fold for 1957 with the signing of rookie first baseman Norman Larker and southpaw reliefer Paul La Palme.

The Sox Wednesday signed No. 13, big first sacker Walt Dropo, who batted .229 last year. Dropo moved in as a regular on July 29 and hit .290 in 62 games.

Rocky Fork Growth Reflected in Report

HILLSBORO — Growth of the popularity of Rocky Fork Lake as a summer playground for Southern Ohio is reflected in a comparative study completed by Arnold Elzey, park manager.

The manager has compiled figures on the sale of various types of boat licenses and dock space during the 1956 season, compared with the opening season for the lake in 1953.

Sale of detachable motor licenses in 1953 totaled 699, compared to 4,206 issued in 1956, the fourth year of operation of the lake.

AS FAR as inboard motorboats are concerned, there were licenses issued for 45 such boats in 1953. By 1956, this had climbed to 101.

Sailboat licenses totaled 17 in 1953 and 22 in 1956.

A total of eight duck blinds was issued in 1953, compared to 56 during the past year.

DURING the four - year period, actual cash receipts from the sale of these various permits climbed nearly 500 per cent.

At present, lake crews are busy with winter repairs of equipment. Elzey said some tentative plans are being made for some road work during the spring and early summer.

Plans are being worked out with the state highway department for improvement to the north beach road and the road leading into Lucky Landing. Elzey said it is hoped that both roads may be widened somewhat.

Clevelander's College Cage Status Eyed

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fred Sawyer, Cleveland high school basketball star, wants to enroll at the University of Louisville next month, but the Kentucky school says it is not interested in him until his status at Toledo University has been cleared up.

Sawyer, who graduates from Cleveland South High School this week, passed his entrance examination at Toledo Jan. 5 and was given a schedule of classes.

He said Wednesday he had changed his mind and planned to enroll at Louisville next month. He said athletic officials at Toledo had been informed of his change in plans.

Coach Bernard (Peck) Hickman said Wednesday night, however, that the Louisville is not interested in Sawyer if he is enrolled at Toledo.

The 6-9 cage star, with an average of close to 25 points a game, scored 32 points as South High coasted to a 74-48 victory over Rhodes Wednesday night. He completes his scholastic career against Cleveland Holy Name tomorrow night.

Sawyer said he decided to go to Louisville because he felt his prospects would be better there. He did not elaborate.

Polio Benefit Set for Jeff

Faculty and Alumni Meet in Cage Game

The Jeffersonville faculty basketball squad put the finishing touches on preparations for its polio fund benefit game with a team of the school's alumni at the high school gym Friday night.

It worked out with a bunch of cagers from the school, augmented by a few others, Wednesday evening. And, the teachers-turned-athletes admitted they surprised even themselves with their performance.

They will meet a squad of alumni made up of Dale Coe, Joe Huff, Ronald Sams, John Wright, LeVern Bock and Art Exline. These names and faces are familiar to basketball fans in the Jeffersonville community, where they starred as Tigers not so long ago.

SPOKESMEN for both faculty and alumni have made it plain that this Friday night game will be no burlesque and that they are out to win — and both teams are convinced they can do just that.

This game will be the second half of a double feature for the evening.

The first half will be the play for the intermural volleyball championships, starting at 7 o'clock.

This will be the third polio fund benefit sports program staged at Jeffersonville. The previous netted $40 and $60 and sponsors are hoping, and expecting, this one to go higher.

An admission of 25 cents is to be charged for everyone — even the players.

Cochrane Predicts Mantle Record

"Black Mike" Cochrane of Philadelphia and Detroit Tiger fame made the statement Wednesday night after Mantle received the Frederick C. Miller Memorial Trophy as the male athlete of 1956.

The former star catcher, who has a sports show on a Chicago television station now, described the 25-year-old slugger as "the greatest switchhitter I ever saw."

Shooting Accuracy Helping OSU Quint

CHICAGO (AP) — Team accuracy from the floor and foul line is paying off for Ohio State although the league-leading Buckeyes have only one man among the top 14 scorers in the Big Ten race.

In five straight conference victories, Ohio State has hit .457 per cent of its field goals for a record pace and is second to Indiana in free throw accuracy with .714. The Hoosiers (2-2) have .732.

Also high on the field goal accuracy chart are Illinois (3-1) with .424, Minnesota (2-) .394 and Michigan (3-1) .393.

Ortiz Sparkles In Ring Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Boxing Assn. had better start making a spot in its rankings for lightweight Carlos Ortiz, a nifty combination puncher who remained unbeaten Wednesday night in gaining his 20th victory.

Ortiz, 20, disposed of Chicago's Bobby Rogers before the TV cameras in Chicago Stadium.

Celtics Pointing For Cage Records

NEW YORK (AP)—Having trampled all opposition in the race for the eastern division title of the National Basketball Assn., the Boston Celtics today were looking for new fields to conquer — with nothing in the record books shy of their grasp.

The talent-laden Bostonians displayed an awesome attack Wednesday night in rolling up 140 points to 108 for Syracuse to miss the alltime single team scoring record by only two points. Oddly enough, it was against the Celtics on Feb. 8, 1956 that Philadelphia set the mark at 142 points.

The Celtics, however, did set a season record, snapping the mark of 137 points set by St. Louis against New York last month.

Fund-Raising Cage Program Set For Friday Night at WHS

A three - ply basketball program to raise money for the Washington C. H. High School's depleted athletic fund today was taking definite form.

It will start at 6 p. m. Friday in the WHS gym with a game between the WHS freshmen and freshmen from Fairfield High School at Leesburg.

About an hour later, the WHS Reserves and the second stringers of the Varsity are to take the floor.

This game, Faculty Manager Clyde Cramer believes could be a dandy because of the competition among these boys for places on the Varsity.

The third and final game on the card will bring together the WHS Varsity and a team of former Lion cage stars.

On the alumni squad will be Wayne Van Meter, Claude Smith, Dewey Foster, Sam Marting, Jack Rettig, Lyle Self, Roger Mickle and Russell (Rebel) Campbell.

TWO FORMER Lion stars now in the service are expected to be home on leave in time to get in the game, too. One of them is Bob Alkire, who was on the All - SCO football, basketball and baseball teams when he was in high school. The other is Bob Dunton who was a three - sport main stay of the Lions and made the All-SCO football squad.

The sports program was arranged to bolster the WHS athletic fund which took a drop during the football season when the gate was off an average of around $300 a game.

Because this is a benefit show, an admission of $1 for everyone is to be charged.

Rupp Seeking Improvement In Cage Rules

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—The top collegiate basketball powers are resting between semesters but outspoken Adolph Rupp, coach of fifth-ranked Kentucky, is still on the attack.

Rupp, never one to let success stop the search for improvement, has leveled a blast at rules he feels cut spectator interest.

He believes professional basketball is "way ahead of the colleges in progressive rules and I predict the next great development and growth in sports will be that of professional basketball. It has been forced to make progressive rule changes to hold spectator interest."

One rule Rupp would have the colleges pick up from the pros is the 24-second limit on ball-possession before a team takes a shot.

But the change he wants most is elimination of the bonus free throw — where a player is given a second free throw for making the first.

"It has no place in a competitive game," he said in outlining suggestions he has made to the NCAA for rules changes.

"The Big Ten has taken not only a sensible but a progressive step to clean up this cheap way of winning a game," he said. He referred to the Big Ten's "six-foul" rule. This disallows the bonus free throw on the first six fouls committed by a team in each half.

Young Yank Net Star Scares Hoad

The 19-year-old student at the University of California put the Aussie ace in the hole by winning the first two sets, but couldn't hold off Hoad's stirring rally. The final score: 4-6, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

The powerful American combination of Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Althea Gibson of New York blasted their way to the finals of the women's doubles, beating Loraine Coghlan and Margaret Helyer of Australia 6-1, 6-4 in the semifinals.

Stengel Says His Yankees To Be Stronger This Year

By CASEY STENGEL

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — The New York Yankees will open the 1957 season not only as World Champions but strengthened by valuable prospects in the pitching department and in the infield.

We should win the pennant unless Detroit, Chicago or Cleveland has strengthened considerably over last year. Detroit, you know, played the best baseball in the American League the last month of the 1956 season. Cleveland and Chicago have changed managers and that may enliven the players.

Detroit had our number last year, winning the season series from us 12 games to 10. This was only the second season series the Yankees have lost in my eight years as manager.

We had a good team in 1956, with good power, good speed and good defense. And it was a young club. The pitching wasn't what you would call excellent until those last five World Series games. Then it was simply tremendous. My pitchers gave me five straight complete games in that series and I think that's going to give fellows like Ford, Turley, Larsen, Kucks and Sturdivant all the confidence in the world. I look for improved pitching in '57. Remember, we also have Grim, Morgan and McDermott plus such fine young prospects as (Jim) Depalo, (Al) Cicotte, (Ralph) Terry, (Mark) Freeman and (Jack) Urban.

I don't have to worry about my catching with Yogi Berra working every day. Just in case, I have Elston Howard and two of the best catchers in the minors last year, Darrell Johnson and John Blanchard.

Billy Martin, Gil McDougald and Jerry Coleman can play any one of three infield positions and in an emergency I can use Bill Skowron at third or Andy Carey at short.

They tell me that Dick Sanders, who was voted the Eastern League's Most Valuable Player last year, is sure to make it some day at third base. I know what Bobby Richardson, who was at Denver last year, can do at second. He's a real comer. And don't overlook that Woody Held. He played shortstop at Denver last year but he can also play the outfield.

We're well protected at first base with Joe Collins to divide the chores with Skowron. Then there's a big rookie kid called Marv Throneberry. All he did last season was lead the American Association with 42 homers and 145 runs batted in. He was the league's Most Valuable Player.

Need extra cash for taxes, old bills or a sudden emergency. Stop in and see us today.

Small Battle Unit Seen for Future

AKRON (AP)—Future wars will be fought by highly trained and relatively small battle groups, according to Rear Adm. Ephraim R. Mc Lean Jr., commander of the Navy's Fourth District.

"As the unit size diminishes," he said Wednesday, "the importance of the individual becomes greater."

His remarks were made during presentation of the Department of Defense reserve award to the Quaker Oats Co. here. It was the first such award made to an Ohio industry.

Quaker Oats received the award for its policy of allowing men time off for Reserve activities and making up the difference between Reserve pay and on-the-job wages.

Future of SCO Loop Discussed at Meeting

The reasons for the withdrawal of Washington C. H. High School from the old South Central Ohio League were explained at a special meeting of SCO League representatives in Greenfield Wednesday night.

Prin. John Trace, Head Football Coach Fred Domenico and Faculty Manager Clyde Cramer, said two principal reasons for WHS joining a new eight-school league: (1) Difficulty in scheduling football games in a five-school loop and (2) failure of efforts to expand the SCO organization. They made it plain that the action was taken with regret and only when there was no other solution in sight.

The reaction of the representatives of the other four schools to the withdrawal of WHS from the SCO added up to regret, but without animosity.

Other schools in the SCO are at Greenfield, Hillsboro, Wilmington and Circleville.

The meeting was called by Athletic Director Paul Orr of Greenfield McClain High School for the purpose of planning for the future by the remaining four schools.

DURING the discussion, it was brought out that all of the schools were faced with the same problems of scheduling as those which caused Washington C. H. to go into another, and bigger, league.

Representatives of two of the four admitted there was a possibility that their school smight be forced to follow the lead of Washington C. H.

Prin. J. Wray Henry of Circleville said his school has had "feelers" concerning joining another league. He intimated that the new circuit was to the north (Columbus) and east of Circleville.

Prin. John Gano of Wilmington said an invitation to join another league made up of schools to the west and southwest of Wilmington had been turned down, but he added significantly that the proposition is still open.

The consensus was that this left Greenfield and Hillsboro in the "tough spot" so far as planning for the future is concerned.

A PROPOSAL of Prin. Walter Shannon of Hillsboro that the four remaining schools "make every effort to maintain the SCO" and expand it with the addition of several schools in the process of consolidations met with approval.

Although no positive action was taken, indications were that the suggestion would be studied for possibilities.

Among the prospective consolidations mentioned casually were at Bainbridge and Bourneville, in northern Brown County, Owensville and in Clermont County.

However, the possibility that Circleville and Wilmington may join other leagues still hangs over the old SCO beclouding the future.

During the informal discussions, representatives of the other schools told the WHS representatives that they hoped the old rivalries of the SCO could be kept alive with non-league games.

THE WHS football schedule in the new league (not yet named), which goes into effect after the 1957 - 58 school year, will provide for two open dates at the start of the season and finish up with nine league games. Trace said it was hoped that these two dates could be filled with old rivals of the SCO.

While the athletic league discussions right now are centering on football, the leagues eventually will become four sport circuits — football, basketball, track and baseball.

Local Health Chiefs Given Warning

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Surgeon General of the U.S. Public Health Service ays resistance by local public health administrators to new ideas and concepts may force the state or federal government to take action.

Dr. Leroy Burney told the University of Michigan's institute on public health administration Wednesday that unwillingness of local health officials to keep up with progress and to experiment with new techniques results in "wasteful expenditure of tax funds."

Dr. Burney said although there is resistance to change on the local level, public health on the state and national levels has made noteworthy progress in adjusting to the changing needs.

GOP Women Here To Meet Monday Night

Some ideas about how to keep a political organization alive and interested between elections are to be given to the Fayette County Women's Republican Club at its 6:30 p. m. dinner at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church Monday.

This was disclosed today by Mrs. Charles S. Hire, vice-chairman of the club and chairman of the program committee, when she announced that Mrs. Wayne Black would be the principal after-dinner speaker.

Mrs. Black, she said, had been asked to tell the Republican women here what they can do to hold the interest of the club members in years when there is no election.

* * *

MRS. HIRE explained that the effort to keep the club intact from one campaign to the next was being made to avoid the necessity of reorganizing before each election and to maintain a continuing interest in party affairs.

Mrs. Black spoke to the club here during the campaign last fall and was asked to return for Monday night's meeting because she made such a favorable impression then, Mrs. Hire said.

Reservations for the dinner, it was said, may be made through Saturday with Mrs. Ray Brandenburg, Mrs. D. H. Barchet and Mrs. E. G. Cunningham.

Miss Garnet Huston is president of the club and Mrs. George Stitt is chairman of the Monday night dinner committee.

The dinner, it was emphasized, is for members of the club and those interested in becoming members.

Ex-Con Admits Vandalism in Dayton Church

DAYTON (AP)—Police said a 30-year-old ex-convict has admitted causing damage estimated at $3,000 in Emmanuel Roman Catholic Church here.

Religious symbols were broken and scattered in the vandalism Jan. 5.

Robert Dean Sewell of Dayton said he became conscience-stricken Wednesday night and went to the parish house where he told his story to the Rev. John J. Rauscher and another priest.

Officers said Sewell blamed the vandalism on whisky and "A little anger built up within me."

Sewell told them he had no bad feelings for the church or anyone connected with it, police said. Although not a Roman Catholic, he said he had attended services there.

Police said Sewell told them he served time at Mansfield Reformatory for burglary and auto theft and had been confined at Lima State Hospital for what he said was a "nervous condition."

Ike Is Urged Break 'Silence' On Race Issue

ATLANTA (AP)—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, has asked President Eisenhower to "speak out from his high office" against what he described as lawlessness and violence against the Negro in the South.

Addressing a rally Wednesday night, Wilkins said the President can see the plight of the Hungarians, he gives the drought area his personal attention, but he "chooses to remain silent while American citizens are being blugeoned out of their freedoms and their rights."

Wilkins said "our churches have been bombed, our ministers arrested, our boys and girls driven from school by mobs, our families uprooted and made to flee for their lives" and no rebuke has come from any high official.

He said Gov. Marvin Griffin in a recent address to the Legislature called for the preservation of racial segregation in Georgia "no matter what any court may rule."

This declaration, Wilkins declared, gave the "green light to the hoodlums . . . the dynamiter, the sniper, the poison pen artist, the cross-burner and the run-of-the mill mobster."

Oak Hill Man Held in Slaying

JACKSON (AP)—Jackson County authorities are holding a 55-year-old man in connection with the shotgun slaying of Clyde Bowling, 40, of nearby Oak Hill.

Jackson County Sheriff John Evans, identifying the man as Bill Hughes of Oak Hill, said Bowling died in Oak Hill Hospital Wednesday, 24 hours after he was shot in the abdomen with a 16-gauge shotgun.

Coroner Dr. Charles N. Gaskill said Hughes testified at an inquest Wednesday night that he ordered Bowling out of his house after an argument and that Bowling refused to leave. Hughes then got the shotgun from a bedroom. When he returned, Bowling grabbed the barrel of the gun and it discharged, Hughes said.

Prospects Growing Dimmer For American-Soviet Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect for a better understanding between the United States and Russia, a declared aim of President Eisenhower in his second term, is dimmer today than four years ago.

Diplomatic officials give two principal reasons: (1) hopes which soared after the death of Joseph Stalin have not been realized, and (2) crises in Eastern Europe and the Middle East have sharpened East-West tension.

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that at the outset of his second term "everything else fades to unimportance" beside the need for better understanding among nations. He mentioned particularly better understanding with the Russians. East-West understanding, he said, could lead to "agreements in which we could all trust."

But even before the need for understanding with the Russians he placed the need for stronger accord among free nations based on the certainty "that their economic and military strength is equal to the test."

HE DECLINED to say that the Russians are hardening their attitude toward the United States. But he did remark that "we are dealing with people who are rather unpredictable and, at times, they are just practically inexplicable."

In dealing with their own setbacks in Hungary and with United States plans for strengthening the Middle East against communism, the Russians are conducting a hate campaign against the United States to an extent unknown since Stalin's day.

They are trying to convince the peoples in the Middle East and South Asia as well as North Africa that the United States has launched a "new colonialism" aimed at taking over Egypt, Syria, Iraq and the like.

Officials in Washington think the Russians may really be seriously worried about the possibility that U. S. military power will be established in the Middle East.

The Soviets do not worry so much about being held in check as they do about real or fancied threats to the security of their own vital areas, including the Baku oil fields north of Iran which are vulnerable to attack from the Middle East.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles chapter of the National Secretaries Assn. lists these qualifications of the ideal boss:

Always remember your secretary has your best interests at heart.

Turn your back when she comes in late and think of all the hours she has worked overtime.

Don't shout.

ATLANTA (AP)—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, has asked President Eisenhower to "speak out from his high office" against what he described as lawlessness and violence against the Negro in the South.

Addressing a rally Wednesday night, Wilkins said the President can see the plight of the Hungarians, he gives the drought area his personal attention, but he "chooses to remain silent while American citizens are being blugeoned out of their freedoms and their rights."

Wilkins said "our churches have been bombed, our ministers arrested, our boys and girls driven from school by mobs, our families uprooted and made to flee for their lives" and no rebuke has come from any high official.

He said Gov. Marvin Griffin in a recent address to the Legislature called for the preservation of racial segregation in Georgia "no matter what any court may rule."

This declaration, Wilkins declared, gave the "green light to the hoodlums . . . the dynamiter, the sniper, the poison pen artist, the cross-burner and the run-of-the mill mobster."

Oak Hill Man Held in Slaying

Jackson County Sheriff John Evans, identifying the man as Bill Hughes of Oak Hill, said Bowling died in Oak Hill Hospital Wednesday, 24 hours after he was shot in the abdomen with a 16-gauge shotgun.

Coroner Dr. Charles N. Gaskill said Hughes testified at an inquest Wednesday night that he ordered Bowling out of his house after an argument and that Bowling refused to leave. Hughes then got the shotgun from a bedroom. When he returned, Bowling grabbed the barrel of the gun and it discharged, Hughes said.

Prospects Growing Dimmer For American-Soviet Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect for a better understanding between the United States and Russia, a declared aim of President Eisenhower in his second term, is dimmer today than four years ago.

Diplomatic officials give two principal reasons: (1) hopes which soared after the death of Joseph Stalin have not been realized, and (2) crises in Eastern Europe and the Middle East have sharpened East-West tension.

Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday that at the outset of his second term "everything else fades to unimportance" beside the need for better understanding among nations. He mentioned particularly better understanding with the Russians. East-West understanding, he said, could lead to "agreements in which we could all trust."

But even before the need for understanding with the Russians he placed the need for stronger accord among free nations based on the certainty "that their economic and military strength is equal to the test."

HE DECLINED to say that the Russians are hardening their attitude toward the United States. But he did remark that "we are dealing with people who are rather unpredictable and, at times, they are just practically inexplicable."

In dealing with their own setbacks in Hungary and with United States plans for strengthening the Middle East against communism, the Russians are conducting a hate campaign against the United States to an extent unknown since Stalin's day.

They are trying to convince the peoples in the Middle East and South Asia as well as North Africa that the United States has launched a "new colonialism" aimed at taking over Egypt, Syria, Iraq and the like.

Officials in Washington think the Russians may really be seriously worried about the possibility that U. S. military power will be established in the Middle East.

The Soviets do not worry so much about being held in check as they do about real or fancied threats to the security of their own vital areas, including the Baku oil fields north of Iran which are vulnerable to attack from the Middle East.
